NEWS BY MAILS.

Lincoln Park, in Cincinnati—four acres of land and three of water—was dedicated Saturday last, and the bust of Lincoln exposed to the public. The monument consists of a marble spire of elaborate workmanship, containing a bust of Mr. Lincoln, flanked by two effigy lions. The shrine was executed by T. White & Son, stone-cutters of Cincinnati, at a cost of $9,500, and if the citizens of that city do not contribute toward paying that amount to that firm, they intend to present it to the city as a voluntary gift. The bust is the production of an Italian art student, cost $500, and resembles in some degree the man whom it purports to represent.

Rev. Alex. McCann, a colored preacher, stationed in Covington Circuit, Tipton county, Tennessee, was waylaid on the road a few days ago and wantonly shot by a rebel soldier named Tom Kelly. The weapon used was a shot gun, and the charge of buckshot took effect in the right shoulder, breaking the shoulder blade and shattering the collar bone. Kelly was arrested and held in $1,500 bail. He had never had any difficulty with the colored preacher, and shot him simply because he was black.

The New York dry goods dealers say that last week was one of the dullest experienced for a long while. Complaint is made that the jobbers are cutting under agents' prices for domestics, to the extent, in some instances, of ½@1 per cent. per yard. The upward tendency in the raw material has failed to improve either woolen or cotton manufactures. Moreover, the prospect ahead not being encouraging, the inclination on all hands is to sell goods for what they will fetch, and this, of course, tends to demoralize the entire market.

There were no fewer than nine matinees at the various places of public amusement in New York, on Saturday, and all of them were a jam. The following are the estimated receipts of the leading establishments during the week:

Italian Opera	$3,000	Wallack's	$3,800
French Opera	3,600	New York	3,000
Olympic	5,000	Broadway	3,300
Banvard's	3,700	Niblo's	5,000
Bowery	3,300	Comique	2,200

The name of James Gordon Bennett, as proprietor, has reappeared in the Herald. The name of the junior Bennett as manager is still excluded. The Herald Sunday reasserted its determination to make the Sunday issue a religious paper—religion in its judgment consisting in the omission of theatrical notices. In place of the usual index of amusements at the head of the editorial page it printed an index of religious services, and several columns of horse races.

All Methodists regard with peculiar veneration and affection old John Street Church, New York, the mother of American Methodism. Its one hundred and first anniversary was celebrated on Sunday with three services, consisting of love feast, prayers, and addresses by former pastors and members. Among them was Father Boehm, now in his ninety-third year.

In Cincinnati, on Friday night, Mrs. Lander was presented with a badge of the Fifth Ohio Veterans, and also elected an honorary member of the regiment. The Fifth Ohio was for a time under command of Gen. Lander. The badge was of massive gold set with diamonds. The presentation address was made by Gen. Noyes, to which Mrs. Lander feelingly and elegantly responded.

James M. Brown, of the firm of Brown, Seeberling & Co., of Massillon, O., died very suddenly Monday evening. Mr. Brown returned from St. Paul a few weeks since, laboring under severe indisposition, but was not considered dangerously ill until disease of the brain set in, which terminated fatally in a few hours. Mr. Brown was formerly of the firm of Still & Brown, wool dealers, Philadelphia, but has for several years been engaged extensively in the manufacture of agricultural implements at Massillon. Mr. Brown is widely known as one of the prominent men of the State, and as one of the pioneers of the anti-slavery cause, and by his death the State loses one of its best citizens.

A young lady living in Painesville, O., named Miss Blanche Roberts, while on her way to church, on Sunday, was shot with a revolver by a young man of the name of Sharp, who had been discharged from her father's employ. The ball entered her groin, causing a painful and dangerous wound. He then fired three other shots, but the balls only passed through her clothes. No cause is assigned for this murderous attack. The Croton Water Board, of New York, upon investigation, have discovered that, of 56,000,000 gallons of water daily brought into the city, one-half of it is uselessly wasted by the carelessness of users. They are, therefore, about to put water meters into all distilleries, large manufacturing establishments, hotels, etc., etc., charging one and a half cents per 100 gallons, and subsequently to attach meters to all places using Croton water.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 29, 1867.

An Important Interview.

This morning Senators Edmunds and Buckalew, members of the Retrenchment Committee investigating affairs in the Treasury Department, called upon the President, and although it was Cabinet day were granted a long interview, which related to certain facts adduced in the progress of the investigation, but which will not be made public at present.

A Mexican Mission.

The President is being urged by no less than three candidates, to appoint a Minister to Mexico before the meeting of Congress, but it is not the intention of the Executive to make any nomination for that position for some time.

Secretary McCulloch's Report.

Secretary McCulloch will not commence to write his annual financial report until the reports of the Bureau officers are all completed. The law does not require any of the annual reports to be submitted to Congress until the first week in December, although the meeting occurs on the 21st of November. It is said that one of the features of the forthcoming report of Secretary McCulloch will be a recommendation for the passage of a law for the consolidation of the maturing indebtedness of the Government into a long bond.

Public Land Sales.

Returns received by the Commissioner of the Land Office show a disposal of eleven thousand acres of the public lands, during the month of September last, at the following local offices: Rosebury, Oregon, and Fort Dodge, Iowa. The greater portion of the land was taken for actual settlement and cultivation under the homestead law; the remainder located with agricultural college scrip and sold for cash.

The Pirate Braine.

Measures are being taken for the release of Lieut. Braine, of the rebel navy, who is the last prisoner of war, and is now confined in Fort Delaware on charges preferred at the time of his capture. He will be released on parole. He never had a trial.

The Georgia Editor Backs Down.

Gen. Grant returned this morning. He denies the main features of the conversation attributed to him by Dr. Bard, editor of the Atlanta Era, and the latter now declares that he does not propose to publish an account of the interview, and so assured Grant to-day. The whole thing reduces itself into an attempt on the part of said editor or his friends to get a little newspaper notoriety by giving an exaggerated statement of what was really a very brief and unimportant interview with Gen. Grant.

The Cabinet.

The Cabinet meeting to-day was mostly confined to matters of a private nature, including minor appointments and departmental details.

WASHINGTON, October 29, 1867.

Kelly is shockingly battered, while his opponent is comparatively slightly injured.

RICHMOND.

A Richmond special says General Schofield has replied to the protest of Mr. Gilmer, to the effect that there will be a court martial, when Mr. Gilmer's specification to the charges already made will be presented. The question of the legality of the election will be referred to the convention. It is rumored the solution of Gen. Schofield's action in the late election is to be found in the fact that he is a candidate for United States Senator from Virginia. Several more citizens have been ordered to leave Richmond by the Negro Vigilance Committee, for speaking disrespectfully of Hunnicutt and his party. Armed negroes have been left on guard in front of his office by Hunnicutt, who prevent any one from passing on the sidewalk.

A NEST OF BURGLARS.

The headquarters of a gang of burglars, who have committed many robberies in Flushing and vicinity, was discovered in the vault of a church at Little Neck, Long Island, where a large quantity of plunder was found. One man was arrested and confessed that he belonged to a gang of burglars composed mainly of sons of farmers residing in the locality. The most intense excitement was occasioned in the neighborhood by the discovery.

IT is related of the King of Sweden that when at Vichy his Majesty contracted a casual acquaintance with a man of business of good standing on the Paris Bourse, and of high financial and industrial capacity. At length the King took a fancy to the latter, and used to walk about with him. They talked of finance, reforms, improvements of every shape and kind. One morning Charles XV. exposed at full length his plans for making some railways in Sweden and Norway. Meanwhile the experienced financier evinced some impatience, and finally burst forth: "Stuff and nonsense! What rubbish!"——Then he stopped short, and added: "I beg your pardon, sire; but the fact is, I am not accustomed to such distinguished company." The King, though not accustomed to this style of plain speaking, laughed and "showed himself a man of spirit."

The Papal Revolution.

ROME, October 26.—There has been fighting to-day, half a mile from the city. Great excitement prevails within the walls.

The revolutionists are making preparations for a second uprising. A proclamation has been issued to prohibit assemblages of over four persons together at the same time. All persons to retire within their houses, and the shops are to be closed when the signal of alarm is given.

News has been received here that one thousand Garibaldians attacked Viterbo, yesterday, setting fire to one of the gates. They were repulsed with heavy loss in men and material. It is said that their leader was the Deputy Acerbi, and that he was killed.

The citizens of Rome, including many of the aristocracy, have been armed and patrol the streets.

FLORENCE, October 26.—News has been received here that a desperate battle was fought near Monte Rotondo on Friday. Garibaldi won the victory with four battalions. He put to flight and pursued the Papal forces taking one hundred prisoners and three guns. Many were killed and wounded on both sides.

General Cialdini has been unable to complete the formation of a new ministry, and has abandoned the effort. Both General Rattazzi and General Durando are trying to reconstruct the Cabinet.

TURIN, October 26.—There was a great popular demonstration in this city yesterday afternoon in favor of making Rome the capital of the nation, and an address to the King of Italy to that effect was adopted.

PARIS, October 27.—Garibaldi's force is said to be from ten to twelve thousand strong. All the Papal troops have been concentrated before Rome, with orders to act upon the defensive. The troops that sailed from Toulon will reach Civita Vecchia this afternoon.

Two battles have been fought between the volunteers under Garibaldi and the Papal forces. The first took place at Monte Rotondo; the second was fought further south, at Torrete. In both these engagements, which were of a desperate character, the invaders were victorious, and General Garibaldi has now arrived before Rome with ten thousand men under his command.

FLORENCE, October 27.—The young men of Italy are swarming over the Papal frontier to join Garibaldi. There is a report that Garibaldi received a check at Monte Rotondo from the Papal troops, who were suddenly reinforced.

PARIS, October 27.—The Moniteur of to-day says that the fleet at Toulon had been kept back at the request of the King of Italy, but it has now sailed for the Italian coast, because no Cabinet has been formed at Florence, and because Garibaldi is menacing the city of Rome. This action of France is declared not aggressive. Both Italy and France are interested in the preservation of order and the vindication of the law. The Moniteur hopes that the entente cordiale between the two nations will not be disturbed.

A banquet was given yesterday by the foreign members of the Imperial Commission of the Exposition Universelle to the French members. M. Rouher, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was present and made an important and significant speech. He alluded directly to the present crisis in the Italian peninsula, and said he hoped Italy would not, under the influence of bad passion, be led to engage in a war with France, but that she would emerge from this great national trial purified and a friend of order.

PARIS, October 27, Evening.—The wildest rumors in regard to Italy are circulating here. It is reported that the Italian Crown Prince has put himself at the head of an army to resist the French. Another rumor says that King Victor Emanuel will abandon his crown.

FLORENCE, October 28, A. M.—The particulars are received of the engagement at Monte Rotondo. They represent that the fighting was obstinate on both sides. At one time during the day, when reinforcements for the Papal troops arrived upon the field, the issue appeared doubtful, but at the end of the conflict Gen. Garibaldi, who led his brave volunteers in person, was completely successful. He immediately followed up his victory, and the defeated soldiers of the Pope, who fell back on Rome, were vigorously pursued. At the latest accounts from the South, Garibaldi, with all his army, estimated at from ten to twelve thousand men, had advanced to the outer fortifications of Rome.

LONDON, Monday, A. M.—Advices from Rome states that great agitation prevailed within the city. The authorities were hourly expecting an attack from the Garibaldians, flushed with their their recent victory. The Pope had retired from the Vatican and sought refuge within the castle of St. Angelo.

FLORENCE, Monday, A. M.—Gen. Menabrea has succeeded in forming a new Cabinet. A royal proclamation has been issued, signed by King Victor Emanuel, denouncing Garibaldi, and declaring the policy of France meets the approval of the Italian Government.

ROME, Saturday, P. M.—Yesterday a band of Garibaldians, who had just crossed the frontier, attacked Bagnorea, and were repulsed by the garrison. Garibaldi is still before Monte Rotondo with four to five thousand men. The place is defended by two companies of the Antibes Legion and about one hundred Papal gendarmes, who have resisted the assaults. One thousand soldiers left here to-day to reinforce the garrison.

TOULON, Sunday.—Orders have been issued for every man of the force intended for Rome to embark at once. Ten thousand troops have arrived from Africa. The northern fleet is expected. There is great activity and excitement in Toulon. The first fleet is waiting outside the harbor for the second, which leaves this evening.

PARIS, Sunday.—There is great excitement on the Bourse and in the city. Napoleon presided at the Council at St. Cloud to-day. The rumor that the King of Italy had abdicated is denied. It is said the squadron at Cherbourg had orders to leave for Italy. Report also says Garibaldi is near Rome with a large force. The Patrie says there are rumors at Florence that the King is about to issue a proclamation to the army that he places Prince Humbert at their head to defend the rights of the monarchy.

PARIS, October 28.—The Pope has issued an encyclical, to the Bishops throughout Europe. He calls attention to the great perils by which he is surrounded, and in pathetic terms deplores the many dangers which menace the temporal power and threaten to destroy the independence of the Holy See.

FLORENCE, October 27.—Cialdini and Rattazzi have declined to enter the Cabinet. General Menabrea to-day formed a new Cabinet, which includes Signors Gualterio, Cumbray, Digno, Cuzuil, Robatte, Ouatele, and Senator Oadarauo. The ministry of Finances has been offered to Signor Sella.

Bands of Garibaldians continue to cross the frontier. Letters from Rome dated Friday, say the bands of Garibaldians near the city have fallen back, but the great body of them is only fifteen miles off. There is no traffic to or from Rome. The telegraph is still cut, and Rome is isolated from the world.

MADRID, Saturday.—It is said Spain has decided to join in any action of the Catholic powers in favor of the Pope.

FLORENCE, October 28, Noon.—The following is the substance of the royal proclamation issued yesterday: The King commences by saying the country is in great danger. He declares that a war against France and her probable allies would be impossible. He denounces the Garibaldians for usurping the right to make war which is the prerogative of the King. He says the nations of Europe must know that he is no disturber of the public order, and the flag raised against the head of the Catholic Church is not his. He commands the insurgents to return to their allegiance, and exhorts the people to sustain their King and preserve the national honor, and concludes by promising that when tranquility is restored Italy with France will settle the Roman question.

Another rumor about the same road, in circulation, is to the effect that the constructing and repair shops, located at Lancaster, Fairfield county, are to be removed to this city, and that the road is to be extended to Dresden.

GEORGIA.

First Day of the Election—Probable Success of the Convention.

MACON, GA., October 29.—The election to-day passed off very quietly, no whites voting. There were 468 votes polled in the city, and 137 in the county. The precincts heard from indicate no action on the part of the whites.

COLUMBUS, GA., October 29.—The election is quiet. Little interest is manifested. There were 658 votes polled, 400 for the county and 258 for the city, only a few white Radicals voting. The number of registered votes for the county and city is about 3,000. The Conservatives take no part in the election. The chances for the success of the Convention are favorable.

SAVANNAH, October 29.—The election to-day passed off quietly. Many negroes from the country and some from South Carolina voted. The city vote is 602, and that of the county 440. About 250 votes were rejected, all of which except three or four were negroes. All of the votes were for the Convention and the Radical ticket. Only one white vote was cast out of 174 city voters and 80 country voters. Many of the names given by the negroes could not be found upon the registry books. The Boston mulatto (Bradley) ticket is ahead. Not a single arrest was made. The co-operation of the civil and military authorities was of the kindest nature.

AUGUSTA, GA., October 29.—The returns from all parts of the State indicate that the conservatives took no part in the election, which passed off quietly. Nearly all the votes cast were for convention. There were 1,785 votes polled here, 1,073 in the city, and 712 in the county, all for convention. The following returns are received from the interior: Rome 700, nearly all for convention; scarcely any whites voted. Marietta 305, mostly freedmen, nearly all for convention. Lagrange, about 500 negroes and 1 white, all for convention, excepting on city and county officers. Griffin, 675 votes polled, 550 for Convention; about 175 whites voted. Fort Gaines, Clay county, 300 votes, all for Convention; no white man offered or cast a vote. Americus, 500 to 600 votes cast, all colored. Albany, 400 votes, all for Convention; few whites at the polls.

ATLANTA, October 29.—The vote of Atlanta and Fulton counties was, for Convention 705, against 800. Less than one-fifth of the registered voters voted.

THE WEST INDIES.

Hurricane in Porto Rico—The Proposed Jamaica and New Orleans Steamship Line—Proclamation from Salnave.

HAVANA, October 28.—Advices from Porto Rico to the 16th are received. A severe hurricane was experienced in that island on the 13th inst., during which a number of coasting vessels were lost, and others seriously damaged, and the rivers overflowed, causing inundations at various points, with considerable damage to property.

Intelligence from Jamaica states that instructions were received from England against the line of steamers proposed to be established between Jamaica and New Orleans. The Governor, at the request of a number of Southerners who wish to see the line established, will write to England to see if he cannot obtain a reversal of the decision.

News from St. Thomas says the steamer Red Gauntlet, which lately arrived there with a number of Southern emigrants on board, has been sold. The brig Sara Newman, with a doubtful cargo from the United States, is at St. Thomas, and possibly may be embargoed.

Latest advices from Hayti state that Salnave had issued a proclamation announcing his success in the recent fighting there.

In San Domingo a money crisis prevails. Commerce is prostrate and the government without means.

HAVANA, October 29.—The affair of the bark Ocean Home has been settled.

Dates from St. Domingo to the 12th inst. state that the United States gunboat Monongahela had sailed for Port au Prince. The ratification of the treaty with the United States had been exchanged. A financial crisis was prevalent, and commerce at a stand-still. Col. Brigman, who had been ordered to leave the country, was recaptured and is to be tried by court-martial.

Cincinnati Billiard Tournament.

CINCINNATI, October 29.—The billiard tournament to-day was largely attended. The first game, between Coon and Rivers, was won by Coon; average 14 8-21. The second game, between Cooper and Smith, was won by Cooper; winner's average, 37½. The third game, between Ackerman and Choate; Choate winner, average 11 4-27. The fourth game, between Foster and Snyder, was a very spirited game, Snyder winning, his best run being 288 points. The fifth game, between Davis and Vermeulen, Davis winning, average 17½. The sixth game, between Coon and Parker, by Coon. Score, Parker 68; Coon 300.

A DEVELOPMENT POSSIBLY.

Important Document about Maximilian.

A clerical organ in the south of France has stated a new version of the story of the documents relating to the Mexican expedition said to have been sent to Europe by Maximilian shortly previous to his death. You will remember that the first rumor circulated in regard to them was that they had been forwarded to the Duc D'Aumale; then we had been informed that they had been confided to the care of M. Hooryex, Secretary of the Belgian Legation in Mexico, who returned a couple of weeks since with the French Minister, M. Dano, with directions to place them in the hands of King Leopold. Now the clerical journal in question asserts that these papers were taken to Rome by the Empress Charlotte and delivered into the hands of the Pope. Of course, the inference sought to be established is that they add considerably to the embarrassment of Napoleon in dealing with the Roman question. If the Emperor keeps his pledges to His Holiness and protects him against expulsion, the documents will remain safely stowed away in the archives of the Vatican. Should he prove false to his duty as a son of the Church, then Pius will give them to the newspapers and blazon to the world the crowning treacheries of the Mexican expedition! Where there dangerous itinerant state papers will turn up next it is difficult to say. Perhaps we shall hear of their being in the hands of King Theodore, of Abyssinia. They may help to get him out of his approaching trouble.

LESTER WALLACK and E. L. Davenport played an engagement at the Chicago Opera House recently. On his last benefit night Mr. Davenport was called before the curtain, and in acknowledging the compliment, remarked that it was his conviction that "the present is not the accepted time for the legitimate drama, and the largest audiences, he well understood, are given to such entertainments as create a laugh, where, perhaps, little other merit exists. He and his friend thought of learning the banjo and the divine art of clog-dancing, in hopes to secure a future success as Ethiopian minstrels. He did not know how they would succeed, but they would do their best, until such time as old Shakespeare should be again seen upon the stage, and his plays played to audiences that would give heart to the players. He believed this time would come again."

GENERAL ORD.—General Ord has now incurred the displeasure of the Southern press. The New Orleans Picayune thus alludes to him:

General Ord, commanding the Fourth Military District, has issued an order directing Sheriffs of the several counties of the State of Mississippi to appoint deputies for each police beat, and any one refusing to accept such appointment, and act as deputy, is to be tried by a military commission. General Ord has all along been regarded as the most sensible of the five provincial commanders, but this order is an evidence that he is not entitled to any better opinion from the people than the other four Congressional satraps.

The Union Pacific Railroad commenced running passenger and freight cars to Hillsdale, five hundred miles west of Omaha, on Monday. Wells & Fargo's coaches will connect there for Salt Lake and Montana, instead of at Julesburg. The time and fare is much reduced.

FROM SALEM, OHIO.

Scriptural Names of Towns on the Fort Wayne Road—Improvement and Progress in Salem—New Church Edifice—Dr. I. Baird—Lecture by Rev. A. Clarke.

SALEM, O., October 28, 1867.

In passing from your city to this place, when approaching the State line, one would naturally receive the impression that this part of the world must have been settled by an eminently religious people. Thus, as you journey you find along the route—Galilee, the prefix "New" being given by way of distinction; and then you have Enon, forcibly reminding you of the place where there was much water; and somewhere on the way you "pass over Jordan," and hastening through Palestine, at length arrive at Salem, while beyond is Damascus, a name which calls up the famed journey of Saul of Tarsus, and that earlier "captain" who spurned the muddy waters of the "sacred river." On what principle the names were applied is difficult to determine—perhaps on no principle at all—since of Salem it could hardly, with any propriety, be said that the "mountains are round about it," or "that beautiful for situation it is the joy of the whole earth." Still, it is rather eligibly situated, and is capable of becoming a place of "beauty and of joy"—is indeed, to some extent, such already.

It bears the impress of improvement and progress in the buildings recently erected and now in construction, and a large and lucrative business is evidently transacted by its people. It was thought at one time that the railway constructed from Leetonia to New Lisbon would affect it to some extent, by transferring some of its trade to that ancient capital; but as yet, no loss has been experienced. At Leetonia, the present terminus of the seven miles of railroad from New Lisbon—the crossing of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway—a town is springing up with amazing rapidity, and from present appearances it bids fair to be an important place for the manufacture of iron products. This, however, will hardly work any damage to the established and increasing manufacturing and mercantile interests of this city, but will serve rather to stimulate its industry and enterprise.

Recently the security of the people has been disturbed by the burning of several houses and stables, causing considerable loss, endangering, however, more than was destroyed, an incendiary work, doubtless, being as yet not certainly known or convicted, though certain are suspected.

You sometime ago noted the sale of the Baptist church edifice, to what is properly denominated the "Broad Guage" people. We learn now that a large and eligible lot of ground on the corner of Main and Lisbon streets has been purchased, and that the two Baptist congregations, heretofore worshipping separately, unite, and contemplate erecting an edifice to front on Lisbon street, at once creditable to the denomination, and a needed improvement to that part of the city.

The very numerous friends and admirers of Rev. J. N. Baird, D. D., will learn with regret that for some weeks he has been compelled, by infirm health, to desist from preaching. It is hoped that rest and careful treatment will, under a kind Providence, avail to the restoration of his health, and a resumption of the duties of his interesting and prosperous charge. In the meantime, the pulpit is being supplied by ministers from different charges, who cheerfully thus endeavor to give aid in this emergency. The pastorate of Dr. Baird has been, during his term, now almost closed, a very successful one.

As the season approaches the managers of the Athenæum are preparing for the usual course of lectures—and it is already understood that the opening will be by Rev. A. Clarke, of your city.

In passing we observe that Main street is laid from curb to curb with heavy plank—and as our ears were saluted with the deafening clatter of the horses hoofs and vehicles upon it, we involuntarily gave thanks that this kind of pavement is not an unavoidable necessity, and shall ever feel like praying rather for that best of all—the Nicolson—or, at worst, the old cobble stone. ABOUT BOOKS.

Of "Timothy Titcomb's" various books upwards of 250,000 copies have been sold; 17,000 copies of his last book "Kathrina" have already been sold—and it has been out exactly four weeks. Dr. Holland has made ninety engagements to lecture this winter and has refused a large number. Next spring he will go to Europe and remain there for study two years. Of N. P. Willis's books it is estimated by Scribner & Co. that 75,000 have been sold. There are 13 volumes in all. The above are published by Charles Scribner & Co., New York, who have recently published Timothy Titcomb's Kathrina; "The Bulls and the Jonathans," by J. K. Paulding; "The Art of English Composition," and "The Art of Discourse," by Prof. Henry N. Day; Guizot's "Meditations on the Actual State of Christianity and on the Attacks which are now being made upon it;" "Language and the Study of Language," by William Dwight Whitney, Professor of Sanscrit and Instructor in Modern Languages in Yale College; and "Short Studies on Great Subjects," by J. A. Froude.

Three hundred sets of Hazlitt's edition of Montaigne are sold annually. Of Bowles's "Across the Continent," 16,000 copies have been sold, and of Carpenter's Inner Life of Abraham Lincoln 24,000 copies. Of books of travel and foreign life—Hayes's "Open Polar Sea" has sold 6,000; of Howells's "Venetian Life" and Haven's "Pilgrim's Wallet," between 3,000 and 4,000; and of Hoppin's "Old England, its Scenery, Art and People," 3,000 copies. "Piciola" has sold 5,000; "Mrs. Caudle's Curtain Lecture," 3,000; "Paradise Lost," 2,000; "Paul and Virginia" and "Undine" are just out. 1,500 copies have been sold of Elna Dean Proctor's poems; about 4,000 copies of Jarvis's "Art Ideas;" and 2,500 of Mozart's Letters. Of Colburn's Arithmetic, about 80,000 copies have been sold. Cooper's novels (in thirty-two volumes) still sell at the rate of about a thousand sets a year. All the above and many more are published by Hurd & Houghton, New York, who have in press or have just published, "Memoirs of the War," by the United States Sanitary Commission; "Memoirs and Autobiography of Frederick Bremer;" "Italian Journeys," by William D. Howells; "Four Years among the Spanish Americans," by Hon. Frederick Hassaurek, late United States Minister resident at the Republic of Ecuador; "The Greek and the Turk, or 'Creeds, Races, Society and Scenery in Turkey, Greece, and the Isles of Greece,'" by S. G. W. Benjamin; "Two Thousand Miles on Horseback"—Santa Fe and back—by Colonel James Meline; "The Diary of a Milliner, (a record of actual life,) by Bell Otis, (a New England lady;) "The Countess of Pemroke's Arcadia," by Sir Philip Sydney; "The Three Holy Kings"—a Christmas book, with photographic illustrations; "Poems of Faith, Hope and Love," by Phœbe Cary; Poems by Elizabeth C Kenney, (mother of Edmund C. Stedman:) "Voices of the Border," by Col. G. W. Patten; "One Wife too Many, or Rip Van Bigham—a tale of "Tappan Zee," by Edward Hopper; "Tiger Lilies," a novel, by Professor Sidney Lanier; "The Home Altar, an appeal in behalf of Family Worship, with Prayers and Hymns and Calendar of Lessons from Scripture for Family Use;" and "Grandpa's House," by Helen C. Weeks, author of "Ainslee," with illustrations by George C. White. They have published or are ready for publishing three law books—"Principles of the Law of Contracts," by Judge Metcalf; "A Treatise on the Law of Insurance," by Willard Phillips; and "An Introduction to the Constitutional Law of the United States," by John Norton Pomeroy, Dean of the Law School in the University, New York.

CHANGING FRONT.—On the subject of Negro Suffrage, the Cincinnati Gazette says:

In order to prevent the political power of one-third of the States of the Union from passing at once and irretrievably into the hands of men who were involved in the rebellion, and giving to that class of people the balance of power between the two great parties in the North, it is important to enfranchise the blacks in the rebel States. There is no such State necessity in the North.

THE Columbus (O.) Crisis thus responds to the nomination of the Hon. George H. Pendleton. It says: "The Democracy of other States concede the meed of merit to Ohio, and her voice will be potential in the ensuing National Convention. It will be in favor of the nomination of one who has nobly contributed to her redemption, and who is in every sense worthy to succeed to the chair of Washington—George H. Pendleton."

CITY MATTERS.

NOT SATISFACTORY.—The old Niagara steamer of this city, which was purchased by the authorities of Meadville, some time since, has been tried frequently, but has not given the satisfaction that was anticipated. At the first trial the safety valve blew out, causing a stampede among the crowd, and on the last exhibition the boiler did not generate sufficient steam to work the pumps. The boiler being new, and "foaming" considerably, may account for the trouble. It might be well to send to this city for some practical fireman to place the steamer in operation.

OUR STREETS.—At a meeting of the City Councils, held on Monday evening, Mr. Ford, a member of the Street Committee, stated that the annual appropriation to the committee had been exhausted, and that four thousand dollars additional would be required to pay for work already commenced, and which would be finished during the present season. It was also announced that the committee had not at their disposal a sum sufficient to pay for the removal of the cobble stones piled on Fifth street, to some convenient locality. The committee has been unusually efficient during the year, and measures should at once be made to relinquish the fund.

Academy of Music.

This evening the first of Miss Caroline McCaffrey's concerts will take place at the Academy of Music, and a glance at the programme will satisfy our music loving people that a rich treat is in store for them. Miss McCaffrey will be aided by some of the best vocalists of the country, as we may class Madame Henrietta Behrens and Mr. Theodore Habelman, the "spiritual tenor." The sale of tickets at Mr. Mellor's has been quite large and the indications are that there will be a large and fashionable audience tonight. Tickets may be had at Mr. Mellor's during to-day.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

A Grant Club Organized in the Second Ward—The Action of the County Executive Committee Endorsed—Col. Wm. Phillips Recommended as a Candidate for Congress.

A meeting of the Republicans of the Second ward was held last evening at No. 66 Smithfield street, for the purpose of organizing a Grant Club. Thomas Steel, Esq., was called to the chair, and Mr. Thomas P. Houston chosen Secretary.

Mr. Steel stated the object of the meeting, after which Mr. Houston offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That we, the Republicans of the Second ward, in public meeting assembled, heartily endorse the action of the County Union Executive Committee in urging the nomination of General U. S. Grant, as the standard bearer of the party in the approaching Presidential election, and that we proceed to organize a Club named in honor of the great chieftain, to advocate his nomination, and to labor zealously for his election, should the party in the exercise of its wisdom and judgment choose him to lead the loyal legions to victory in the contest of 1868.

After remarks had been made by Dr. Biddle Arthurs, Capt. Cook, Capt. Hunter, James Black, Wm. N. Ogden, T. H. Phelps, and others, the resolution was adopted amid great enthusiasm.

The following gentlemen were then elected as permanent officers of the Club:

President—Thomas Steel, Esq.

Vice Presidents—Capt. Wm. B. Cook, George Wilson, Chas. M. Gormly, Wm. Woods and John C. Mattern.

Secretaries—Thomas P. Houston, Thomas H. Phelps and Thomas S. Bigelow.

Treasurer—Thomas Ewing.

Executive Committee—Wm. N. Ogden, Thomas W. Davis, Captain James Vick, Captain J. M. Hunter, M. S. King, Joseph S. M. Young, James Black, Wm. M. Hersh, Crosby Gray, Dr. Biddle Arthurs, J. McDonald Crossan, Colonel Wm. Phillips, Colonel J. L. Slentz, M. W. Beltzhoover, Samuel Young, E. S. Kennedy, John Paul, John D. Bailey, Thomas Bailey, Edward House, Wm. C. Carry and Alexander Aiken.

The following resolution was then adopted:

Resolved, That the Republicans of each election district in Allegheny county be requested to fall into the line under the banner of Grant, and organize clubs similar to our own; and we recommend that when such clubs have been formed in one-third of said districts, a County Grant Club, composed of the Presidents and one delegate from each of the various clubs, shall be organized.

A resolution, instructing the Executive Committee to report a full plan of organization for the club at its next meeting, was passed.

Mr. James Black offered the following which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we urge on the citizens of the Twenty-first Congressional District the nomination of Colonel William Phillips, of the Second ward, Pittsburgh, as successor to Gen. J. K. Moorhead in the National Assembly. We recognize in Colonel Phillips a true exponent of the principles of the Union Republican party, and know him to be a gentleman eminently qualified to represent in Congress our great manufacturing district and to participate in the affairs of our country.

The meeting then adjourned.

QUARTER SESSIONS—JUDGE STOWE.

The case of Commonwealth vs. David Martin, Mary Martin, and Robert Baldwin, known as "Black Bob; reported as on trial yesterday, for keeping a disorderly house in South Pittsburgh, and carrying the business of fortune telling, was resumed. Severe more witnesses were examined by the prosecution, among them several neighbors of the defendants. They testified that they had been disturbed by the noise in that vicinity, and several of them had had their fortunes told.

On the part of the defense several witnesses testified that they had resided in that neighborhood and had not been disturbed. They also said the characters of the defendants for peace was good. Some of them testified that "Black Rob" made a living by washing and ironing, and was a hard working man. The jury found a verdict of not guilty as to the first count, but on the second count Robert Baldwin was found guilty.

DISORDERLY HOUSE CASE.

The case of Minerva Johnson, indicted on two counts, the first for keeping a disorderly, and the second for keeping a bawdy house, was taken up. The information only charged the defendant with keeping a disorderly house.

Mr. Lucas moved to quash the second count of the indictment, for the following reasons:

First—The prosecution in which the indictment was framed was commenced by a private prosecutor by information made by a committing magistrate for keeping and maintaining a common disorderly house to the common nuisance and disturbance of orderly citizens, but not for keeping a bawdy house.

Second—The second count of the said indictment was framed and presented to the Grand Jury by the Assistant District Attorney without any previous information having been made for the offense charged therein.

Third—The defendant is prepared to go to trial for the offense charged in the information, but is not prepared to go to trial for the higher offense charged in the second count of the indictment, and of which she had no notice, and for which there has been no previous hearing.

The second count of the indictment was declared quashed for the above reasons.

John Sheehan, the prosecutor, was the first witness sworn, and stated that he resided near the defendant who at the time the information was made resided at No. 72 Gibbon street, in the Eighth ward, and that there was a great deal of noise about the house, to the annoyance of the neighbors. He said that Miss Johnson kept a large dog, and told her boy to keep the dog barking in order to keep him (witness) awake when he wished to sleep.

Several other witnesses made similar statements. One woman, who resided next door, testified that drunken men who had frequented the house had vomited out of the window into the kitchen.

Mr. Bell testified that he had heard considerable noise about the house. He sometimes heard the dog barking but could not understand it, because the animal did not bark in German.

Only one witness was examined on the part of the defense. He said he lived on the opposite side of the street, and did not hear many sounds that would indicate a disorderly house. The jury found a verdict of not guilty, the defendant to pay the costs.

TRIAL OF AN ALDERMAN FOR LARCENY AS BAILEE.

Alderman Edward Lynch was arraigned on an indictment charging him with larceny as bailee. The information was made by John Mehan and alleged that on the 15th of August last the defendant unlawfully and fraudulently took into his possession and appropriated to his own use, and refuses to deliver up, a check on the banking house of Ira B. McVay & Co., representing value to the amount of $89 59, contrary to the act of Assembly in such cases made and provided.

Mr. J. C. McCarthy opened the case on the part of the prosecution. He said the facts of the case were that the prosecution had obtained a check on a banking house in this city, and it was not honored. He gave the check to Alderman Lynch to collect, and after the Alderman had obtained the money he refused to pay it over to the prosecutor.

John Mehan, the prosecuting witness, said he obtained a check on the banking house of Ira B. McVay & Co., and presented it at the bank several times and could not get any money on it. He called on Squire Lynch, and Lynch told him he could collect it. Witness went to the office afterwards and left the check with Mr Case, who drew up a paper, and when the defendant came in, he (Lynch) said the money could be obtained in twenty-four hours. He said he called several times on the Alderman after this, and could not get the money or the check.

John Kelley was sworn and said he had accompanied Mr. Mehan to the office of Squire Lynch, and the money on the check had been refused.

Gen. A. L. Pearson was called for the defense, and said the money had been obtained by the prosecutor, but could not state whether it was before or after the time the information was made against the Alderman.

The case will be concluded to-day.

Zacheus Scott, convicted of assault and battery, Monday, was sentenced to pay a fine of $60 and costs.

George Dawson, convicted of the same charge, was sentenced to pay a fine of five dollars.

Court adjourned until ten o'clock this morning.

COMMON PLEAS—BEFORE JUDGE MELLON.

The case of Thomas Hall vs. Himmelwright & Carus was taken up. Action to recover damages growing out of alleged breach of contract. It is alleged by plaintiff that he had made a contract with the defendants for fifty thousand railroad ties, and after he had furnished 10,000 they notified him that he need not furnish any more. On trial.

In the case of the United States vs. Daniel Shenatt, indicted for carrying on the retail grocery business without a license, at the instance of the District Attorney, a nolle pros. was granted. Costs to be paid by the United States.

In the case of the United States vs. twenty barrels of whisky owned by Daniel Carns, of Somerset county; the defendant's counsel, A. H. Coffroth, Esq., moved the Court to strike out the decree of forfeiture and dismiss the libel. The Court granted the request on the payment of the required costs by the defendant.

The O'Hara bankruptcy case is still on trial and will probably not be concluded before to-morrow. Some of the closing arguments will most likely be heard to-day.

DISTRICT COURT—JUDGE WILLIAMS.

The case of James Smith vs. the Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad Company, being an action to recover damages for the death of Oscar J. Smith, who was killed in June, 1866, during a collision between a passenger and a freight train on the line of the road, was resumed yesterday. The counsel for the defense, in closing their case, presented to the Court the original verdict of the Coroner's jury, in which the road was censured, and requested that it be admitted as evidence, it being a decision arrived at by an officer of the law after an examination of the facts in the case. Judge Williams decided that if the engineer or conductor of the train were on trial the document might be admitted, but ruled it out in the present case. The trial will probably be concluded to-day.

DISTRICT COURT TRIAL LIST.

LOOK ABROAD FOR NEWS OF HOME.—The Greensburg Argus is responsible for the following: "On Monday evening of last week, a man named Harper, was run over by the emigrant train at or near Shafton, and literally cut to pieces. The accident was not discovered till it reached Pittsburgh, where his head was found on the cowcatcher. He was a resident of Irwintown, we believe, and had been to Greensburg on that day, where he became somewhat intoxicated."

SCULLING CONTEST TO-DAY.

The Arrangements Perfected—The Race to Take Place at Three O'Clock, Precisely.

The much talked of sculling contest between Henry Coulter, of Allegheny, and John Mckiel, of Cold Springs, New York, for a purse of two thousand dollars, will come off this afternoon on the upper course of the Monongahela river. The excitement in regard to it was much heightened last evening by the appearance of a number of Mckiel's friends, who accepted the bets previously offered of one hundred to seventy-five on Coulter. A large amount of money was staked, and it is probable that the sum will be largely augmented to-day. The late match between Coulter and Jackson, in which the former showed himself to be an accomplished oarsman, has had the effect of drawing around him a large number of friends, who appear sanguine that their favorite will win the race. This confidence is increased from the fact that Mckiel's personal appearance does not indicate that he is equal in strength or endurance to his competitor, while Mckiel's adherents are satisfied that appearances are sometimes deceitful, and that he would not issue a general challenge to any oarsman in the country without being fully convinced that he was competent to compete successfully for the prize.

MCKIEL'S ANTECEDENTS.

Although Mckiel has never rowed a match sculling race, he has taken part in a number of regattas, and shows a good record. Being a fisherman, and accustomed to the use of the oar, he has had unusual facilities for acquiring a practical knowledge of the science. In the regatta at Springfield, Mass., September 20, 1866, he entered for the two mile single-scull contest with Josh Ward, Walter Brown and Foster Doyle. The race was won by Ward, in 15:59, Mckiel's time being 16:01. Brown did not cross the score. In the Boston regatta in July last he won the first prize against all competitors.

THE RACE TO-DAY.

The preliminary arrangements for the race to-day have been settled, and if the weather proves favorable an unusually exciting contest may be looked for. Representatives of the principals met last evening and decided that the contest would come off this afternoon at three o'clock precisely. They also selected as referee Mr. William J. White, Warden of the County Jail, a gentleman who has paid much attention to aquatic sports, and who is fully competent to discharge the duties of the position. Messrs Ira O'Harrington and William Nelson will act as Judges for Coulter. Mckiel has not yet announced his representatives, and it is probable that he will select from the New Yorkers who are expected to arrive at noon to-day. The course is in excellent condition, and it is anticipated that unusually good time will be made.

The facilities for reaching the course will not be so good as had been expected. Jimmy Hamill had made arrangements to convey passengers to Glenwood, on barges towed by the steam tug Fox, but it being contrary to the marine laws for a towboat to carry passengers the project was abandoned. The steamer Elector will, however, start for Glenwood at two o'clock P. M., returning to the city after the race, and in time to leave on its regular trip for Brownsville at five o'clock. The trains on the Connellsville Railroad will run regularly to the ground.

Meeting of the Allegheny Temperance League.

The Allegheny City Temperance League met, pursuant to public announcement, in the Rev. Dr. Clark's (United Presbyterian) church, corner of Stockton avenue and Sandusky street, last evening, the President, Rev. J. B. Clarke, in the Chair, and J. Freeborn and W. G. Warren, Secretaries.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. A. K. Bell.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Rev. H. McGaw being present, by invitation of the League, was introduced by the President and addressed the meeting, arguing with force and ability, the necessity of a prohibitory law in Pennsylvania. The address was listened to by the intelligent audience present, with eager attention, and a most hearty vote of thanks was passed approving of the reverend gentleman's remarks.

The Executive Committee reported, through their Secretary, on the work of the late election, which gave Mr. M. McGonnigle, the nominee of the League, thirteen hundred votes, proving that there is in this county many who will not give their influence to political parties who do not regard the spread of intemperance.

The Rev. R. A. Browne, D. D., being present, was called upon by the President, and addressed the meeting in regard to the organization of the State Temperance Convention, and the utility and bearing upon public opinion, appealing to the people present to sustain the temperance cause in all its appeals to suppress the liquor traffic.

On motion, the League adjourned to meet on Tuesday evening, November 12th, in Rev. Dr. Pressley's (United Presbyterian) Church, in the Diamond. Benediction was pronounced by Rev. R. A. Browne.

The Death of Young Bowers.

We have already briefly noticed the killing of H. C. Bowers, on Saturday last, on the Pennsylvania Gas and Coal Company's branch railroad, near Irwin's Station. The circumstances of his death are thus related: He appeared on that morning with an order to go on a coal train, Engine 228, as a substitute for a brakeman who had obtained a short furlough. The engineer, Mr. John Brieger, was backing his engine and tender, and while doing so approached two cars standing on the track—one of them loaded—which it was not intended to couple to, but the deceased raised the coupling link and stood in an inclined position, which he was thought or called to that the cars were not to be coupled. As the tender came close to the standing cars, he lowered his head, which was caught between the bumpers and crushed flat. He was a respectable young man and resided in Pittsburgh, where he leaves a wife and child. His father lives in Cambria county. Justice J. M. Laird was called on to hold an inquest, and a verdict was rendered in accordance with the facts.

AMERICAN PROTESTANT ASSOCIATION.—The German Lodges of the American Protestant Association in this vicinity will celebrate the seventh semi-centennial anniversary of the commencement of the Reformation of Luther, at the St. Paul's Evangelical Church, in Allegheny, to-morrow evening. The members of Gustavus Adolphus Lodge, No. 33, will meet at their hall in Birmingham, at six o'clock P. M., and march in procession under command of Chief Marshal John Ruckreigel, to the Lodge room of Luther Lodge, No. 5, of Pittsburgh, where they will join them and take up the different lodges in Allegheny on their way to St. Paul's Church. The orators of the evening will be Rev. C. Welterhausen and F. C. Trapp, Esq.

SEVERE ACCIDENT.—A little boy, aged six years, named John O'Donnell, residing with his parents in Duquesne borough, met with a serious accident a day or two since. It appears he was sitting on a coal car, which had been left on a switch near the Girty's Run Rolling Mill, when a freight train on the Western Pennsylvania Railroad backed down on the switch, striking the car upon which he was sitting with such force as to throw him off. He fell on the track in front of the wheels of a freight car which passed over his leg, crushing it in a terrible manner between the ankle and knee, rendering amputation necessary. The operation was performed by Dr. Herron, of Allegheny, assisted by a surgeon from Lawrenceville, and the lad is now recovering slowly.

Public Amusements.

OPERA HOUSE.—Mr. Chanfrau and Mr. Parsloe will both appear this evening in "Our American Cousin at Home," in which they have become as popular as they are in "Sam." To-morrow night, Mr. Parsloe will have a benefit.

THE Lubin Brothers continue their magical gift entertainments at Masonic Hall, and nightly give away many useful and beautiful presents.

HEBREW BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—A grand vocal and instrumental concert in aid of the Hebrew Benevolent Society of Allegheny, will take place at Masonic Hall, on Monday evening next.

The Daily Commercial

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1867.

THE COMMERCIAL is the largest daily paper in the State, and gives daily one-fourth more reading than any other paper in Pittsburgh. It is the only Pittsburgh paper that uses the telegraph liberally, gives full market reports, and all the news of the day.

THE Republicans are wide awake in New York. The complaint of the leading papers of that party is that the Democrats are not, and that "General Apathy" has taken the field at the head of the Democratic forces. Certain divisions in the ranks are noised about reaching beyond the present campaign.

THE New York Post, after speaking in complimentary terms of Speaker COLFAX's Cooper Institute speech, good humoredly suggests that it might be well for our public men to give their attention to acquiring and disseminating "a clear knowledge of the laws of society and politics" and to applying them "to the solution of our problems." It is to be hoped that some statesman will be ready, when Congress meets, to bring to the discussion of debt and taxation something like the ability and thought the question deserves.

THE Cincinnati Commercial is put to a good deal of trouble to explain an editorial article wherein Mr. CHASE's political sentiments were defined to be more Conservative than Radical. The principal significance of the article is derived from the fact of its conspicuous reproduction in the New York Tribune, which does not hesitate to avow that it wants Mr. CHASE for President, and the fact that he, or anybody for him, has not disavowed the correctness of the aforesaid definition. The Commercial now disavows any special knowledge of Mr. CHASE's sentiments, and declares that "he had no knowledge of it whatever, and cannot justly be charged with the least responsibility for it." The question is not so much whether Mr. CHASE was privy to the publication as whether it correctly represents him. We repeat, its prompt and conspicuous republication by the Tribune strongly favors the conclusion that it does. The article may have been a jest so far as the Commercial is concerned, but, according to the old proverb, the truth is sometimes told in that way.

ROME.

The interest of the news from Italy increases in intensity. GARIBALDI with twelve thousand men thundering at the gates of Rome, the people of Italy everywhere flocking to his standard, and the French army hourly expected, are features which of themselves are sufficient to make up an exciting budget. Added to all this is the report that the Crown Prince of Italy would head an army against the French. This, even though not true, is no doubt consistent with the feeling of the Italian people and significant, it may be, of the future.

The Italian Government appears to be in a perplexity that prevents any effective measures in opposition to the Revolutionists, who are in fact aiming to promote the unity and glory of that Government. The Revolutionists, aiming to make Rome the capital of Italy, are Italian people. Italian soldiers refuse to act against them. King VICTOR EMANUEL is paralyzed by the condition of things.

NAPOLEON is expected to solve the difficulty. He has kept the Pope on his small seat of civil authority for eighteen years, until last winter. As soon as he withdrew, the throne began to totter before the popular gale. He now has sent a fleet and troops to the defense of the Pope's dominions. What motive he can have, as a statesman or a diplomatist, it is difficult to imagine. He will make himself more enemies in Italy than he will make friends in France. The interposition is not as safe as it was in 1859, when Austria was the only great power that took interest in the question, and when the republican character of the revolution made it offensive to sovereigns. Nor does the treaty of September stand on as strong foundations as it did in 1864, when it was made. The relations between Italy, Prussia, Austria and France are not what they then were. And in consequence of these changes, the intervention of France has become a much more delicate matter, and may involve consequences which diplomacy will not be able to master. It is evident that while GARIBALDI and NAPOLEON are contemplating the severer kind of negotiation for the possession of Rome, diplomacy in other quarters is not inactive to meet the possible contingencies.

POLICY AND PRINCIPLE.

There is a class of persons who, while crying out for consistency and the maintenance of principle, endanger the success of the ends and principles that they clamor for, by the imprudence or even recklessness of their practical measures. To hold up principle to good purpose, and to further wise and useful designs, there must be some deference paid to the conditions of time, order and mode, in the procedure. This is no less true in politics than in common business and other affairs of human interest and action.

The suffrage question has been, partly by the precipitancy of this class in the Republican party, and still more by the cunning of the opposite party, displaced from its subordinate position and presented in the front rank of the conflict. Nothing is clearer than this, that if equal or impartial suffrage is to become the rule, and if ever the grand ideas, for human rights, developed in the war, are to be carried into practical application, it must be done by the Republican party, for the Democratic party is opposed alike to both. In order to this the integrity and strength of the Republican party must be maintained, which cannot be if the subordinate question, as to mode and order, be allowed to supplant the main question as to the ends which are aimed at.

For this reason we have not favored the foisting of the negro suffrage question into our State politics during the late canvass, and we regretted its introduction into the canvass in Ohio at this time. From the nature of the case it could not fail to distract the minds of some of our party and to withdraw their consideration from the real and great questions which constituted the issue between the loyal Republican party, and the Democrats, whose attitude towards the Union Government and its reconstruction has been, and is, to use the softest term, equivocal. The use they have made of the opportunity in Ohio and the effect of their obtrusion of the subject in Pennsylvania, afford proof of the correctness of our views and of our course, which, beyond a doubt, are those of a large majority of the Republican party. Hence as has been with truth affirmed on all hands, the unity and strength of the party, on the essential principles of it, are the same that they have been during the war and since. The only diversion, in either respect, is in relation to the mode and order by which those principles shall be consolidated in the practical administration of the national affairs. These are embodied in the plan of Congress for restoring the seceded States to the Union, and on this line the campaign should be steadily prosecuted and then its success will not be doubtful. Other matters can be adjusted better afterwards than before this grand object can be effected.

There is, therefore, both for securing the just reconstruction of the Union, and ultimately for securing other vital interests, a necessity for maintaining the strength and unity of the Union party. It has been seen in the progress of the late elections that the policy of the Democratic party is thoroughly a destructive one, before which, were it clothed with power, not only justice in equal suffrage, but honesty in financial engagements and prosperity in all business affairs, would be sacrificed. And for maintaining the strength of the Union party, not only must the main question, as opposed to the views and intentions of Democratic destructionists, be kept in front, but that wise statesmanship and common sense policy must be pursued, which takes consequences into account, and considers what will be the effect of to-day's action on the interests and obligations of to-morrow.

The principles of the Republican party, well known to friends and foes, are that the Union is to be preserved, and that its government is to be so administered as to maintain its good fame, and to secure the rights and promote the happiness of all its citizens. Such principles should not be brought into danger by allowing the subordinate interests to displace the more important, and so by distraction weaken the power that in due order will happily secure them all.

In our own State there is an appointed time for dealing practically with the suffrage question. For our part, we are utterly opposed to the color test, and in favor only of fitness based on intelligence, without regard to color; which, in our judgment, is the only true standard of equality, and the only principle consistent with the perpetuity of the Republic. There are questions that take precedence here; and in saying this we surrender nothing—abate no principle, but husband resources against the time for grappling with the great question of suffrage.

Prohibition vs. License in Massachusetts.

A day or two ago we quoted from the Springfield Republican a paragraph designed to leave no doubt that the Prohibition party in that State were growing weaker and that the license principle was fast gaining ground. The reader should understand that this question is paramount in the pending political canvass, and the October verdict will be on this rather than on the distinct party issues of the day. In the Boston papers we have the statement of Mr. Berry, the Secretary of the State Temperance Committee, on the prospect. He says: "Within a few weeks, we have met the enemies of prohibition in caucus all over the Commonwealth, and in eight-tenths of the cities and towns we have gained a glorious victory. Our success has been even greater than our most sanguine expectations."

The Author of Junius.

The work commenced by the late Mr. Joseph Parker, upon the authorship of the Junius letters, has been completed by Herman Merivale, and will shortly be published by Mr. Bentley. In his book it is proved that Sir Philip Francis was Junius. Some papers discovered among Sir Philip Francis's collection, establishes beyond all possibility of doubt, the fact that Junius and Francis were one and the same person. The direct evidence is surprisingly strong; but the collateral evidence is conclusive. The letters of Sir Philip to his daughter would alone be sufficient to set this old literary dispute at rest.

THE men who handle travelers' baggage and the men who manufacture trunks, ought to be on terms of amity with each other. Their interests are closely connected. There is an almost perfect system in operation on railroads, for preventing the loss of baggage, but there is no protection of it from damage by rough handling. It reaches its destination with almost absolute certainty, but, alas! how often in a forlorn and battered condition—the corners of trunks crushed in, and everything in carpet sacks or satchels flattened as if they had been under a hydraulic press. It might be a greater loss, but scarcely so much of a vexation, if they had been sent to unknown parts and never seen again. Is there no rule, order or law, that can secure baggage from the smashing it receives in traveling? The safe transportation of it is paid for, and safe it should be, as well from damage as from straying, delay or loss.

IN its "University Intelligence," under date of October 12, the London Times says: At a special congregation this day, the Right Revs. C. P. McIlwaine, Bishop of Ohio; H. J. Whitehouse, Bishop of Illinois; T. Atkinson, Bishop of North Carolina; H. W. Lee, Bishop of Iowa; H. C. Lay, Missionary Bishop to Arkansas and the Indians; C. T. Quintard, Bishop of Tennessee; and J. B. Kerfoot, Bishop of Pittsburgh, were admitted to the honorary degree of LL. D. Graces had passed the Senate for conferring this degree on all the American Bishops who attended the recent Conference at Lambeth, but only seven found it convenient to receive the degree to-day.

IT takes a genuine Yankee to do the clever thing, particularly when away from home. When the Quaker City, with the "Pilgrims" on board, reached Alexandria, the Jaffa colonists—the deluded set who were enticed to leave their homes in Maine for Egypt—were awaiting in a state of destitution, passage to the United States: something had been collected, but not enough. At this juncture, Mr. M. S. Beach, of the New York Sun, (one of the Quaker City excursionists,) with great generosity placed in Mr. Hale's hands the sum of £300 sterling to complete the sum necessary to enable the colonists to be sent home.

MR. J. ROSS BROWNE, the Commissioner for the Collection of Mining Statistics, is about to report at Washington. The statistical returns of production are not yet complete, but it is probable they will not vary materially from the following summary: Montana, $12,000,000; Idaho, $6,000,000; Oregon, $2,000,000; Colorado, $5,000,000; Nevada, $19,000,000; California, $25,000,000; Miscellaneous, $6,000,000, for the present year.

Extensive Forgeries of Grain Receipts.

[From the Chicago Republican.]

Another crime, startling in its nature because of its magnitude, has just come to light. D. D. Michaels, publisher of the Daily Market Review and Commercial Letter, and one of the most persistent "bulls" in a small way that operated on 'Change, turned up missing Saturday morning, and simultaneously the Manufacturers' National Bank ascertained that it had been swindled by him to the extent of about $10,000. The news spread like wildfire among the members of the Board of Trade, and an inspection revealed the fact that the Commercial Insurance Company were losers to the extent of about $2,500, besides $4,000 insurance debited to him, and which will also be lost. Mr. Hulbert, who resides in Harlem, was also swindled out of $10,000, and rumor has it that the Michigan Central Railroad has also been bitten in $8,000, as well as Phillips & Bro., who are losers of $4,000. Michaels's plan of operation was to forge duplicates of his warehouse receipts, and by pledging both the originals and the forgeries, raise money to carry on his operations in pork, lard and provisions, and cover up his losses, which were continually coming upon him at every turn. It is now impossible to ascertain the amount of his frauds, for, as is usual when the business community is interested in a gigantic swindle, the losers are reticent concerning their losses, for fear the knowledge will affect their credit. Besides, in this case there are so many persons who are victims, that at this early hour it is impossible to ascertain them all, but, so far as known, the above embrace them all.

Where he has gone no one can conjecture, though it is evident to all that he has fled the scenes of his crime. What steps have been taken to arrest him, if any, have not yet transpired. Mr. Hulbert, who is one of the heaviest losers, is out of town, and up to Saturday evening did not know of his loss. It is said that it will nearly ruin him, as the money loaned to Michaels was the bulk of all he possessed. Those who pretend to know, say that not one-half of his forgeries have yet come to light, and when they do the total will be found to amount to nearly $50,000.

PERSONAL.

—Senator Trumbull and wife, of Illinois, are at the Ebbitt House, Washington, and will soon select winter quarters. Messrs. Dawes and Washburne, of Massachusetts, have taken a house in the western part of the city.

—Booth concluded his second week in Cincinnati Saturday evening last. Says the Commercial: "His popularity remains unabated and the probability is that if he were to perform here for a month his audiences would continue to crowd the theater. Several times during the past two weeks the managers were obliged to notify the applicants at the box office that standing room only could be had, so great has been the rush to see Mr. Booth in some of his famous characters. If there can be any better evidence of that coveted thing known as success, we don't know where it is to be found in the career of an actor." Miss McVicker is much praised as the most promising young actress on the American stage.

—Mrs. Lander has concluded a successful two weeks engagement in Cincinnati and gone to Louisville.

—A new first class danseuse named Morlacchi has dawned upon New York. The Tribune says of her: "She is of the spiritual order of woman, small, delicate, fiery, with a fine little head and a luminous face, and she dances with all her soul as well as with her body. We have seen no better dancer upon the stage."

—The Sun reporter, who visited Mr. Brady's, was informed that a committee, to comprise names of the widest and greatest influence, is about to be immediately organized to carry out a new idea, at present kept secret, by means of which Mrs. Lincoln's impecuniosity is to be relieved.

—On board the City of London for London, from New York on Saturday, were Mrs. Hartley, of Philadelphia, Rev. Michael Meehan, Rev. A. V. Tompany and family, and Capt. Armstrong, of the British army. On board the United Kingdom, for Glasgow—Mr. Hickman, of Meadville, Pa. On the Borussia, for Southampton and Hamburg—Rev. Dr. C. Willerup, of Denmark, and John Thiele, of Pittsburgh. On board the Fulton, for Havre, via Falmouth—Hon. J. B. Varnum and family; Rev. J. P. Magiliano, and Mrs. Erastus Brooks and family, of New York city.

A BOOK OF THE WAR.

BY A PITTSBURGH CHAPLAIN.

History of the Eleventh Regiment.

A Book for Western Pennsylvania Households.

THE STORY OF THE REGIMENT. By William Henry Locke, A. M., Chaplain. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.

Now that the dark days are upon us in this smoky city of ours, it is refreshing when one reads—and read he must—to have placed in his hands a book whose clear open page, and round full type invite a perusal of its contents, and thus make what is one's duty also his pleasure. The name of the publishers of the "Story of the Regiment," is a sufficient guarantee for the general excellence of the mechanical execution of the book. But in this instance the great Philadelphia firm has exceeded itself, giving to the reading public a volume which in respect to paper, type, printing, binding and engravings, deserves to be pronounced really handsome.

Nor is the best part of the book on the outside. The record of any regiment of men actively engaged in the suppression of the rebellion, however homely might be the style of the narrative, could not fail to be intensely interesting. But a thoughtful observer, in a good position to see, and able to discern the bearing of one event upon another, has gathered up the details of this Story; and a wonderfully facile pen has connected them together in sentences sharp and quick as the report of a rifle, or smooth and polished as a burnished bayonet. The author gracefully tells us in the preface, that his "duties did not require him to carry either sword or musket, and what he tells is made up from a note book never absent from him, whether in camp or on the march. When the original record—sometimes made during a halt along the road-side, and sometimes in the midst of battle—better tells the Story, that record is inserted, day and date." And we must say for Mr. Locke that there is no effort to fill up the chapters with needless details and empty words. Graphic descriptions of marches and battles, of personal reminiscences and touching sketches, carry the reader along almost imperceptibly through its pages.

When one feels inspired to write it is well for him to have a worthy subject. In this respect also Mr. Locke has been exceedingly fortunate. The Eleventh Regiment of Pennsylvania Volunteers—whose history from its first organization in the spring of 1861—is embodied in this genial Story, made for itself a proud and enduring record. It counted among its officers Major General Richard Coulter, of Greensburg; Brigadier General Henry A. Frink, of Philadelphia, and Dr. R. M. S. Jackson, of Cresson; the former soldiers of whom the State may well feel proud, and the latter a gentleman whose rare literary attainments placed him among the first naturalists and geologists of the country, and whose abilities as a surgeon were everywhere acknowledged as of the highest order. Dr. Jackson was transferred to the West when General Hartsuff took command of the Department of Tennessee, and died in the service.

Commencing its campaigns under General Patterson, in the Three Months' Service and ending with the surrender of General Lee at Appomattox Court House, the Eleventh Regiment was identified with nearly all the movements of the Army of the Potomac. The early chapters of the volume are especially interesting and valuable, as they treat of a period in the military movements of the country less understood, perhaps, than any other. Already those early records, overshadowed for a time by the greater events of later days, begin to have to the reader much of their early interest and novelty. The unwonted excitement of the first few weeks of the Rebellion, the anxious solicitude with which all eyes regarded the military operations in and around Washington, and the chagrin at disappointments and delays, are vividly recalled by our author.

Into the brief hours of those unusual days were crowded events for whose maturity a quarter of a century had been necessary. Harper's Ferry, evacuated by the Federal troops in the evening, was occupied next morning by a large rebel force that marched down the Shenandoah Valley, under the command of General E. J. Johnson. An attack upon Washington, by way of Alexandria, was hourly expected; and the appearance of rebels at Harper's Ferry and along the banks of the Upper Potomac, looked as though an attempt was to be made to invest the city by overrunning the borders of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

With something of the spirit that characterized later army movements, all the troops that could be spared from the actual defense of Washington were placed in a command of General Patterson, and hastened to the border. The Eleventh Regiment, relieved of guard duty on the railroad, and marching by way of [illegible] and Washington, reported to the commanding General at Hagerstown, and was assigned to Col. Abercrombie's Brigade of Keim's Division.

The army of General Patterson, as it was the largest single command acting against the enemy, was an object of national interest. It was preparing to march against twenty thousand rebels, whose leader expressed a determination to hold Harper's Ferry at all hazards, as the key of the Shenandoah Valley. General Scott counseled Patterson that it must not be enough simply to sustain no reverse. "A check, or a drawn battle, would be a victory to the enemy, filling his heart with joy, his ranks with men, and his magazines with voluntary contributions," telegraphed the veteran commander at the moment the troops took their first forward step.

Filing out from the numerous camps around Hagerstown, with the rising of the sun of June 15, all the brigades and divisions of Patterson's column were moving in splendid order toward the Potomac. The army thus marching to the attack of Harper's Ferry, embraced within itself names that have become of household familiarity in the military records of the nation. Major General Burnside was then known as Colonel Burnside, in command of a Rhode Island regiment; the present General George H. Thomas was simply Colonel Thomas, commanding a brigade in Keim's Division; Major General John Newton was only Captain Newton, of the Engineer corps.

The rebel General did not wait for the near approach of Patterson's forces. Drawing in the two regiments of Texan riflemen that picketed the Potomac as far up as Sheppardstown, the day after our movement began Harper's Ferry was evacuated, Johnson falling back to Martinsburg. The unexpected retreat of the enemy was received with demonstrations of delight. It was regarded as an omen of good, promising a successful issue to all succeeding undertakings.

Full of confident enthusiasm, the pursuit of Johnson was commenced the following morning. Seven or eight thousand troops had already crossed into Virginia, and were marching down the south bank of the Potomac, when a sudden halt was ordered by a telegram from Washington, announcing that the city was threatened from the direction of Alexandria, and calling on Patterson for immediate reinforcements.

The troops required by Gen. Scott left the army on the Upper Potomac without either artillery or cavalry, and greatly reduced in the number of its effective men as to make a further advance impossible. The regiments that had crossed the river were recalled, and a movement, that at first promised the most decisive results, was changed into a period of inaction, as full of monotony to the soldier, as they were of impatience to the entire North.

Toward the latter part of June, a battery of six guns, and a small force of cavalry, having been sent to him, General Patterson prepared to resume his forward movement, crossing the Potomac at Williamsport on the morning of July 2d. The battle of Falling Waters was the result, which is thus narrated:

The first column marched southward along the main road, except Negley's Brigade, that diverged to the right, a short distance from the river, to protect our flank. The smooth pike leading to Martinsburg had not then received the impress of a tramping army, nor were the green fields, on either side of it, transformed into fields of blood and carnage. Yet there was a sound of battle in the air. Skirmishers were kept thrown out well to the front, and an occasional rebel vedette could be seen, falling slowly back before our cautious advance.

Six miles from Williamsport, toward the middle of the forenoon, the army reached Falling Waters. Broad acres of wheat flanked the road right and left, and on a slight elevation in front stood the residence of the proprietor. At the moment of advancing through a skirt of woods, and in turning a short angle in the road, our skirmish line suddenly developed a force of the enemy posted in a clump of trees, while the main body of the Confederates appeared in sight, sheltered behind breastworks of fence rails and fallen timber. It was the brigade of Stonewall Jackson by which we were thus confronted, since celebrated as the "Stonewall Brigade," consisting of the Second, Fourth, Fifth and Twenty-seventh Virginia Regiments, J. E. B. Stuart's cavalry regiment, and Captain Pendleton's battery of four guns.

The disposition of the Federal troops was quick and judicious. Abercrombie deployed the Eleventh Pennsylvania and First Wisconsin to the right and left of the pike. Hudson's battery, supported by McMullin's rangers, was placed in the middle of the road, and a general advance ordered against the rapid fire of the rebels, drawn up in battle-line behind Porterfield's house. With shouts and cheers, that ran along the whole column of troops hurrying forward at the sound of cannon, the leading brigade obeyed the word of command.

The enemy's artillery was admirably posted to sweep the Martinsville pike; but, fortunately, Pendleton's range was too high, and the shot passed harmlessly overhead. While thus engaging the rebel infantry and artillery in front, Stuart brought up his cavalry, and riding swiftly from the opposite direction, was seen to make threatening demonstrations on the right of the Eleventh. Repulsing two separate efforts on the part of Stuart to charge our line, Colonel Jarrett detached Companies A, B, and C as skirmishers, to take the cavalry on the flank; while the left wing of the regiment was pushed forward to turn the rebel cannon planted in the middle of the road.

The unusual excitement of battle now extended to the remotest file of the army, and footmen and horse were pressing with eager haste toward the front. Thomas's brigade, marching behind Abercrombie and the next to reach the ground, quitting the pike, and moving in compact lines through the fields, extended its right toward the enemy's flank. Closely pressed by Abercrombie in front, and threatened on the left by Thomas, further resistance was useless; and after a spiteful encounter of nearly an hour, Jackson reluctantly abandoned the field.

The purple tide, that has since reached its flood height, has effaced almost every mark of the battle of Falling Waters. Yet the features of war are ever the same. Those fields of wheat, just ripe for the harvest, were trodden down and destroyed. The elegant farm house, whose white front could be seen through overhanging trees and climbing vines, was shattered by artillery, and the peaceful scene of rural felicity marred and ruined.

Stonewall Jackson's first engagement with our troops did not promise the success of later exploits. Eight of his dead were left unburied on the field, and a large number are known to have been wounded. The Union loss was two killed and fifteen wounded. Of these the Eleventh lost Amos Sappinger, company H, killed, and eight others wounded.

Amos Sappinger was Pennsylvania's first life offering, on the battle-field, in the war for the Union. He deserves a more enduring monument than these pages.

The pursuit of the retreating foe was kept up as far as Hainesville, four miles from Martinsburg, where the army bivouacked for the night. Resuming the march with the earliest dawn of next day, on the 3d of July, Patterson occupied Martinsburg, Stonewall Jackson falling back on the reserve force at Bunker Hill.

Passing through the three months campaign, we find the Eleventh among the first regiments to re-enlist for three years. In the latter part of November, 1861, it was ordered to Annapolis, where the men were kept on duty until the 9th of the succeeding April. Our readers will be obliged to us for two or three felicitous sketches, taken from this portion of the volume:

"Ever since General Butler landed his troops at the mouth of the Severn River, and marched from thence to Washington, Annapolis had been an important point to the Government. At the time of our arrival it was an immense depot of military supplies, besides the rendezvous of the Burnside Expedition, whose unknown destination lent a romantic charm to everything connected with it.

In the midst of the formidable array of ships and men that crowded the harbor and thronged the streets of the antique city, we found ourselves surrounded by associations inexpressibly dear to the heart of every American. We were in one of the oldest cities of the Union. Here was the State House, with a history running back to the days of the Revolution, in which the treaty of peace with Great Britain, acknowledging our independence, had been ratified by Congress. Here Washington resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the American army, and retired to Mount Vernon. The [illegible] has been preserved unchanged; and to stand upon the spot where Washington stood at that [illegible] in his life, to look upon the same objects on which he gazed, seemed to place one in close communion with the spirit of the mighty dead. It was indeed [illegible] the demon of war [illegible] should dare to manifest itself.

St. John's College [illegible] quarters for men [illegible] in which were found excellent [illegible] the three large [illegible] officers, the former occupying [illegible] dwelling-houses of the professors—was scarcely less venerable and venerated than the State House itself. The main building had been erected more than a hundred years, and was at first designed as the Executive Mansion of the State. But the General Assembly of Maryland, in 1784, incorporated St. John's College, and conveyed to the trustees the building and four acres of land, known as College Green.

College Green was used in the revolutionary war as the camping ground of the French army; and also by the American troops assembled in the war of 1812. Now, for the third time, it became a military encampment. It was not a foreign foe that threatened us, but those of our own household. Violent men were seeking to destroy the integrity of the republic, and the troops then drilling on soil already consecrated by the footsteps of the patriots who established the Government, had before them the not less glorious work of preserving that Government in fact to those who should come after.

It would have accorded better with the inclinations of all concerned had the Eleventh been selected to make a part of the Burnside expedition, then nearly ready to sail. But the order of General Dix assigned us to duty in Annapolis. The duties were onerous and more than should have been required of any one regiment. The city was furnished with a provost guard, twenty-one miles of railroad were protected, besides performing a large share of fatigue duty at the Naval Academy, the Commissary depot of the sailing expedition.

A contraband trade had been kept up between Baltimore and Virginia through the lower counties of Maryland, upon which we were also to keep an eye; as well, possibly, by our presence, protect the Maryland Legislature, then about to assemble, in its expressions of loyalty and denunciations of treason.

Companies B, E, I and K were sent out on the railroad, while from the other companies was made up the provost guard, and all the details for duty elsewhere. The guard-house was in the old city ball-room, one of the historic places of Annapolis. Older than the State House, it had been used as the legislative hall during the erection of that building; while the supper-room was formerly the revenue office of the province. The walls were still decorated by portraits of Lord Baltimore and several of the former Governors of Maryland. Those gentlemen of the olden time seemed strangely out of place in the crowd of unruly soldiers that the Provost Marshal, Captain Jacob J. Bierer, almost nightly provided with lodgings in that room.

Nor were we so far from the front as to be undisturbed by the passing events of the great conflict.

It was on a Sunday afternoon, just after religious services had commenced, that an order was received at the church from General Hatch, commanding the post, requiring one company, fully armed and equipped, to report at headquarters for special duty. It was well that all the facts in the case did not come out at once, or the Chaplain could scarcely have kept the attention of his remaining audience.

The iron-clad Merrimac, with which the rebels had been threatening our navy for months, had actually encountered and sunk the frigates Congress and Cumberland; and was reported to have passed Fortress Monroe, with a fleet of gunboats. Great excitement prevailed throughout the city, every one supposing the vessels would sail direct to Annapolis, for the purpose of capturing the immense commissary stores in depot.

Company A was sent down the bay on the steamer G. A. Warner to watch the movements of the iron-clad, and to give notice of her first approach. All the steamers in port were ordered to Baltimore, as in case of attack the harbor of Annapolis was without adequate defense; while many of the citizens were preparing to fly at the moment of certain danger. But most opportunely, a new opponent appeared in the shape of a Monitor, to contest the further advance of the formidable adversary. After a severe struggle of three hours, the Merrimac gave up the fight and in a disabled condition returned to Norfolk.

When the alarm had ceased, and all things once more assumed their quiet ways, one family, at least, found itself greatly benefited by the threatened visit of the rebel iron-clad. Among the domestics of that household is one who bears the not very poetical name of Jane. She is decidedly hard to manage, and a source of great vexation to the female portion of the family. Various and novel have been the ways resorted to in order to bring her to terms. A year or two before a negro man was hanged for some crime, and among those sent to see the sight, for the good it might do, was Jane. But, strange to say, not the least impression was made upon the incorrigible colored girl. Hanging is not an every day affair, and it is hard to tell whether, in course of time, the effect on Jane might not be all that is desired. Up to that eventful Sunday afternoon, the only thing that subdued the unruly and wayward domestic was losing:

"Hark from the tomb, a doeful sound."

Whenever coaxing and driving and the whip failed in their efforts, some one of the family struck up the notes of this funeral hymn.

With what imaginary terrors Jane had invested the Merrimac, the family did not care to inquire. But it was soon discovered that a threatened visit from the hideous monster, whatever the terror might be, was a source of alarm as potent as that of singing the hymn; and as the new remedy admitted of an easier application than the old one, it was ever after adopted to quiet into obedience the obstreperous servant.

Attached to General McDowell's corps, which was designed to operate against Richmond by way of Fredericksburg, and recalled from the latter place in pursuit of Stonewall Jackson, after the defeat of General Banks, during McClellan's Peninsula campaign, the Eleventh was a part of the army of General Pope, whose Virginia campaign, as given by Mr. Locke, will be read with deep interest. The battles of Cedar Mountain, Rappahannock Station, Thoroughfare Gap, Bull Run and Chantilly, are equal in their details of personal experience and observation to any we have yet seen. Then follow the battles of South Mountain and Antietam; the removal of McClellan; the campaigns of Burnside; the operations of Hooker, and the movements of Meade.

Toward the close of the year 1863, the "Old Eleventh," as officers and men like to speak of their regiment, re-enlisted for a second time, and we have followed our author through all the battles of the Wilderness down to the banks of the James, across the noble stream to the front of Petersburg, and finally to the Appomattox, listening to his Story with an ever-increasing interest. Starting out with the avowed purpose of putting on permanent record the deeds of his own regiment, Mr. Locke has given us a noble contribution to the general history of the war, especially valuable to every Pennsylvanian. The book will be offered for sale in a few days, and without further anticipating the pleasure to each one of our friends of a consecutive reading of its pages, we close this review with one more extract:

THE LAST MARCH OF THE FIFTH CORPS.

The second day of April was Sabbath,—a bright, clear day. Called from their bivouac near Gravelly Run Church, whose closed doors reminded us of the wicked times upon which we had fallen, the two Divisions of Crawford and Griffin, turning their backs upon Five Forks, at an early hour in the morning, were marching in the direction of Petersburg, to open communication with the main body of the army on the right.

The enemy was found in strong position directly across our path at the junction of the White Oak and Claiborne roads. Miles's Division of the Second Corps, sent to reinforce Sheridan and that marched in front of the Fifth Corps at once opened the attack on the enemy. Before the lines of Crawford and Griffin could be formed, Gen. Humphrey, with the rest of the Second Corps, moved down from the right. The connection with the right of the army was now complete, and leaving Miles to act with his own Corps, Sheridan countermarched the Fifth Corps to Five Forks, and crossing Hatcher's Run by the Ford road, reached the Southside Railroad without opposition.

A thousand caps went swinging into the air, as the troops crossed that great thoroughfare of the Confederate army. The men believed that they had now reached the objective point of the campaign, and with willing hands awaited the order to unsling knapsacks, and commence the work of tearing up the railroad. But instead of a halt, the march was continued at a quick step up the railroad toward Petersburg. Then, obliquing to the left, and still marching on across Crandle's Run, late at night, the Eleventh bivouaced in line of battle north of Sutherland station, the right of the regiment resting on Namozine road, and connecting on the left with the rest of Baxter's brigade.

The absence of Gen. Warren from the head of the column, as it filed out into the White Oak road, early in the morning, was the first intimation to the troops that the General had been relieved of the command. With the splendid achievements of Gen. Sheridan fully acknowledged, and with an admiration of his dashing soldierly qualities second to none, the men of the Fifth corps have never forgiven him for his hasty action toward their well-tried commander.

The successes that followed the victory of Five Forks—a victory which belongs as much to Warren as to Sheridan—and that culminated in the surrender of Gen. Lee, took out of sight many things that might otherwise have come to the surface. Regarded at the time as a freak of temper rather than the dictate of calm and sober judgment, the removal of Gen. Warren remains to this day without the justification of reason or expediency.

The enemy that we knew to be behind the line of earthworks in front of our bivouac slipped away during the night, and on the morning of April 3d the Fifth Corps, commanded by Gen. Griffin, moved out with its accustomed promptness.

Too busy with the exciting contest in our immediate front to hear the guns that had opened all along the front of Petersburg, it was not until this morning that we knew of the successful storming of its outer defenses, and the compression of our lines around the city. It was while the men were waiting for the order to fall into ranks, that a deep and prolonged cheer came rolling along the line of troops, like the swelling of a tornado, telling that Petersburg and Richmond were both evacuated, and that the whole rebel army was in precipitate retreat toward Danville.

If the Quartermaster had gone through the ranks of the Eleventh, and, taking up all the sore feet and stiffened limbs, had issued to each man of the regiment a new pair of legs, they could not have marched forth with a more supple step. The roads over which we moved were the same, in their make up, that we had traversed for four long and wearisome years—swamps and woods, varied only by woods and swamps. That day, too, we were marching at a dog trot, after Merritt's cavalry; but all fatigue was gone. From his place in the ranks, each private soldier could see the end of the rebellion in the capture of Lee's retreating army; and toward that point everything was now made to bend.

Ten o'clock at night we bivouaced at Deep Creek, with the Appomattox river not far to our right. Scores of stragglers from the Southern army, and multitudes of contrabands, who had lost their masters, had fallen into the moving column during the day. Gathered around the camp fires, that the chilly night air still made pleasant and agreeable, the events of the passing hours were discussed with an interest as absorbing as Cabinet Ministers could discuss them.

An hour later most of the men had stretched themselves on the ground to sleep. Walking up and down through the ranks of the prostrate forms, we found ourselves not alone wakeful with the thoughts of the past and the promise of the future. With heads toward the fire lay huddled together a group of darkies, contrabands, and all on terms of the most friendly intimacy. We came upon them unobserved, and waited a moment to listen to their talk.

"I feels better to-night than I did after that fight at Gettysburgh," said one whose voice was at once recognized. "That was a mighty warm place, I tell you. It seemed to me as if I'd never git away from thar. I felt as if I wanted to pray; but de Colonel's Jim was thar, and de Doctor's Andy, and I didn't like to let 'em see me. Then the shells begin to come faster than ever, and day seemed to say as plain as anything, H-a-r-vey, H-a-r-vey; so I stretched myself square on de ground jist as I'm laying now, and I said low to myself—O Lord! if you please, do de very best you can for Harvey.' Jist then I heard an awful hollering. Andy sai' 'de Johunies is gitting whipt;' and it was all true. I felt good then; but I feels a heap better now."

Daylight of April 4th, the Fifth Corps was again on the move. The cavalry had divided into three separate columns, and were pushing forward to harass the flank, and cross the front of the retreating Southerners. It was the same hurried march to-day as yesterday; and not until the head of the column crossed the Richmond and Danville Railroad at Jettersville, sixteen miles from the place of starting, was the hard day's work completed.

Throughout the day of April 5th, Griffin's corps remained entrenched at Jettersville. Amelia Court House was five miles to the northward, and already in possession of the Confederate advance. Next day, turning westward, General Lee marched with rapid haste for Farmville, in the desperate endeavor to place the Appomattox river between himself and his eager pursuers. It was on this morning that Sheridan turned over the Fifth Corps to General Meade. It had followed the cavalry for three days, keeping up with the troopers in all their long and hurried marches, and watching at night in the same line of battle, or resting in the same bivouac.

The Sixth Corps was now pushed to the front; moving one day on the flank of the army as far to the left as Prince Edward Court House, and the next day hanging on the rear of the retreating rebels. April 9th, the Fifth corps halted at Appomattox Court House.

The 9th day of April, 1865, was Sabbath, just such a calm, clear day as the one that preceded it, on which we moved out from our bivouac near Gravelly Run Church. The two armies of Grant and Lee were at last together, with only the little town of Appomattox between them. But there was no deploying of skirmishers, or movements of divisions into lines of battle, or unlimbering of cannon. The army of General Lee had surrendered; and in a small house, plainly seen, low-squatted within a green enclosure, and before whose door an orderly on horseback still held the white flag brought in by Gordon and Wilcox, Grant and Lee were settling the terms of capitulation.

Our China and Japan Trade.

Although but little more than half a year has elapsed since the steamship line between San Francisco and China and Japan began to run, it is already a complete financial success. It is probable that the highest estimate made as to the trade which we shall ultimately do with our Asiatic friends, will fall far below the mark. The commerce of lands inhabited by four hundred millions of people—shrewd, active, capable and eminently commercial people—is now at our command, and we are certain in the end to secure it. The effect which this trade will have on San Francisco and the whole Pacific coast, and the United States generally, cannot be estimated at this day, but it is certain to be immense, and almost revolutionary in its extent.

A CORRESPONDENT sums up thus succinctly the situation of affairs in Turkey: The Turks are at their wits end. Amnesty does no good. Their troops are demoralized and unable to take the field. Russia says decidedly—cede Crete to Greece or take the consequences. France and other Continental powers say: Appoint a mixed commission to consult the people, or hope for no sympathy from us. Greece is burning to declare war. England says I am neutral. I sympathize, but take care what you do or you will get into trouble. The Cretans themselves seem more determined than ever to accept nothing but annexation to Greece; and if one were to venture a prophecy under certain circumstances, he would probably predict their final attainment of this end.

Capt. Thomas H. Taylor, who, for nearly half a century, has been prominently identified with the steamboat interest of St. Louis, died there Sunday, after a long illness.

WESTERN NEWS.

At a consultation, at Salt Lake, of Mormon missionaries, who have returned from all parts of Europe, the reports were very favorable, especially from Sweden and Denmark. Brigham Young, Jr., spoke of his favorable reception at the Paris Exposition, and urged that an elder be sent to France, thoroughly acquainted with French manners and customs.

The Peoria Transcript says that Hon. Sidney Breese, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of this State, is spoken of as the Copperhead candidate for President. Judge Breese was on the carpet when Buchanan was nominated, but the venerable Old Pub. Func. pushed him off the track, and then, as if to insult the Judge, sent him a commission as United States Marshal, which he refused with great wrath.

The Evansville (Ind.) Journal learns that the breadth of land sown to wheat this fall in that part of the State is unusually large, in consequence of the very favorable weather for sowing. It is an old adage among farmers that to insure good crops you must "sow your wheat in dust, and your oats in mud." This season, there can be no doubt, has been favorable for carrying out the maxim.

The Iowa Voter gives the following singular incident: "About 8 o'clock on Friday evening last, two common screech owls flew into the room whire a Mrs. Shope was dying of consumption, and perched on the head of her bed. Attempts were made by persons present to drive them out of the room; but they would not go until Mr. Shope caught them and took them out. The woman died an hour afterwards."

WEST VIRGINIA NEWS.

Brig. General M. Jeff. Thompson, Confederate General, paid Charlestown, his native home, a visit a few days ago, and received a cordial greeting.

The congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South of Shepherdstown, has purchased the brick dwelling and lot belonging to John E. Schley, Esq., on New street, known as the "Shugart property," for a parsonage, for the sum of $1,750.

There is now being produced at Oil Rock between twenty-five and fifty barrels of oil daily, and the wells now being pumped give evidence of an abundant yield. A contract has been made for hauling oil from there to Kanawha Station at $1 50 per barrel.

William Berry, late of Company E, 11th West Virginia Infantry, while engaged at Lynch's saw mill on Slate Creek, Wood county, a few days ago, was thrown violently against the saw, which cut off one leg, and crushed his ribs, killing him instantly.

On Thursday, while Miss Murphy, a young lady aged about eighteen years, was passing from her father's residence on the Virginia Shore, two miles and a half below Steubenville, to a neighbor's house some few hundred yards distant, she was seized and gagged by three men, who carried her despite her struggles to the woods in the neighborhood and there terribly abused her. She was in their power for more than an hour, and when she reached home she fell to the floor insensible, and at last account was not expected to survive.

England's Political Future.

The English people are having their troubles, and the future with them is about as much a question as it is with us, only that they are threatened with a change more radical than any with which we are menaced. For that matter the London correspondent of the New York Times writes as follows:

"I was dining the other evening in company with a sagacious and well-known member of the political world. Some one said, in reference to the Royal family, 'we have probably seen the last of such a reign as the Queen's. Nothing but her reputation for virtue and domesticity among the poorer orders of society saves us from troubles now, and the Prince of Wales will find that he has a harder task before him than his mother encountered.' 'If,' said the politician, 'we go on as we are doing now, I firmly believe that the Prince of Wales will never come to the throne at all.' This seemed a startling statement, but it is borne out by all the indications of the time. Something must depend on personal fitness in days like these. What would you think of the manners of a man who made a point of entering ladies' drawing-rooms with a cigar in his mouth, and was not too particular in other habits of life? Is the offense any the less because it is committed by a Prince? These are not the times when the people of this country will put up with a revival of the practices of the worst rulers. The Queen is a tower of strength still—it is wonderful how firmly the bulk or the people are attached to her. So they are to the monarchy, but I doubt whether such experiments could be made upon their patience now as were tried in former times with impunity. The last Prince of Wales came to the crown safely—if he lived now he would have been more likely to have brought about the total overthrow of his dynasty. But there are some men, born to high stations, who are incapable of learning any lessons either from the events of the past or the warnings of the present."

The Highest Mountain in the United States.

The claim has been made for Mount Hood, Washington Territory, which was asserted to be 22,000 feet in height, but recent actual surveys made it only 11,600 according to one, and 12,500 according to another. Mount Shasta is now ascertained to be 14,440 feet in height, by actual measurement, and Professor Whitney says that there are two peaks in the northern part of the Sierra Nevada range, on the border between southern Nevada and California, which are from 16,000 to 17,000 feet in height, though they have not been measured. Mount San Francisco, in Central Arizona, is estimated at 13,000 feet, but has never been ascended, and it is the opinion of many that it is higher than any of the others. It is a wonderful mountain, with three great peaks, one of which is the crater of an extinct volcano, broken down on one side, out of which flows a branch of the Colorado Chiquito river. He who first scales its snow-clad sides and reaches the summit, will look down on the home of the Aztec race in the fifteenth century, and behold a vast extent of country as yet untrodden by the foot of civilized man.

MOTHERS, BEWARE OF OPIUM.

BROWN'S NURSERY CORDIAL.

The only Infant Remedy that contains no Opium.

Every mother in the land can now feel confident that there is a remedy for her suffering infant that is in no way injurious, but a positive good. It softens the gums, abates inflammation, acts as a tonic upon the stomach and bowels. For infants suffering with diarrhœa, wind colic, flatulency, restlessness and kindred complaints it is a speedy and safe remedy; all other infant preparations contain opium and are not safe. Mothers, give this a trial. Sold by all druggists and by

SAVE THEM.

Do not miss the occasion of saving your teeth while you may yet have a chance. Once lost they can never be replaced as nature originally fitted them for you. A liberal use of WARD'S FLUID AND POWDERED DENTIFRICE will preserve the teeth, harden the gums and give you a sweet breath.

Sold Wholesale and Retail by JOSEPH FLEMING, No. 84 Market street, and all Druggists.

PAIN

Is a real thing and no phantasy. What is more excruciating than the misery of a toothache or an ear ache, too often proceeding from a neglected grinder that might have been kept perfect if the victim had have used WARD'S FLUID AND POWDERED DENTIFRICE.

Sold Wholesale and Retail by JOSEPH FLEMING, No. 84 Market street, and all Druggists.

RUINS.

We scarcely pick up a paper in which the eye does not meet with this heading—the ruins of Pompeii, Nineveh, or some other monument of the past. And how little do we think that every day there is decay leading to ruin rapidly progressing around us. The ruin of a fine set of teeth is to its owner a great loss, but one that can be prevented by a free use of WARD'S FLUID AND POWDERED DENTIFRICE.

Across the Sierra Nevadas.

THE

Central Pacific Railroad,

THE WESTERN HALF OF THE

Great National Trunk Line Across the Continent,

Being constructed with the AID AND SUPERVISION OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, is destined to be one of the most important lines of communication in the world, as it is the sole link between the Pacific Coast and the Great Interior Basin, over which the immense Overland travel must pass, and the Principal Portion of the Main Stem Line between the Two Oceans.

Its line extends from Sacramento, on the tidal waters of the Pacific, eastward across the richest and most populous parts of California, Nevada and Utah, contiguous to all the great Mining Regions of the Far West, and will meet and connect with the roads now building east of the Rocky Mountains. About 100 miles are now built, equipped and in running operation to the summit of the Sierra Nevada. Within a few days 35 miles, now graded, will be added, and the track carried entirely across the mountains to a point in the Great Salt Lake Valley, whence further progress will be easy and rapid. Iron, materials and equipment are ready at hand for 300 miles of road, and 10,000 men are employed in the construction.

The local business upon the completed portion surpasses all previous estimates. The figures for the quarter ending August 31, are as follows in GOLD:

Gross Earnings.	Operating Expenses.	Net Earnings.
$487,529 64	$86,548 47	$401,031 17

or at the rate of two millions per annum, of which more than three-fourths is net profit on less than 100 miles worked. This is upon the actual, legitimate traffic of the road, with its terminus in the mountains, and with only the normal ratio of government transportation, and is exclusive of the materials for the further extension of the road. The Company's Interest Liabilities during the same period were less than $125,000.

Add to this an ever-expanding through traffic and the proportions of the future business become immense.

The Company are authorized to continue their line eastward until it shall meet and connect with the roads now building east of the Rocky Mountain ranges. Assuming that they will build and control half the entire distance between San Francisco and the Missouri river, as now seems probable, the United States will have invested in the completion of 865 miles $28,502,000, or at the average rate of $35,000 per mile—not including an absolute grant of 10,000,000 Acres of the Public Lands. By becoming a joint investor in the magnificent enterprise, and by waiving its first lien in favor of the First Mortgage Bondholders, the General Government, in effect, invites the co-operation of private capitalists, and has carefully guarded their interests against all ordinary contingencies.

The Company offer for sale, through us, their

First Mortgage Thirty Year Six Per Cent. Coupon Bonds,

Principal and interest payable in Gold Coin, in New York city. They are in sums of $1,000 each, with semi-annual gold coupons attached, and are selling for the present at 95 per cent. and accrued interest from July 1st added, in currency, at which rate they yield nearly Nine per Cent. upon the Investment.

These Bonds, authorized by Act of Congress, are issued only as the work progresses, and to the same amount only as the Bonds granted by the Government; and represent, in all cases, the first lien upon a completed, equipped and productive railroad, in which have been invested Government subsidies, stock subscriptions, donations, surplus earnings, etc., and which is worth more than three times the amount of First Mortgage Bonds which can be issued upon it.

The Central Pacific First Mortgage Bonds have all the assurances, sanctions and guarantees of the Pacific Railroad Act of Congress, and have in addition several noticeable advantages over all other classes of railroad bonds.

First—They are the superior claim upon altogether the most vital and valuable portion of the through line.

Second—Beside the fullest benefit of the Government subsidy, (which is a subordinate lien,) the road receives the benefit of large donations from California.

Third—Fully half the whole cost of grading 800 miles eastward of San Francisco is concentrated upon the 150 miles now about completed.

Fourth—A local business already yielding threefold the annual interest liabilities, with advantageous rates payable in coin.

Fifth—The principal as well as the interest of its Bonds being payable in coin, upon a legally binding agreement.

Having carefully investigated the resources, and prospects of the road, and the management of the Company's affairs, we cordially recommend these Bonds to Trustees, Executors, Institutions, and others, as an eminently sound, reliable and remunerative form of permanent investment.

Conversions of Government Securities INTO CENTRAL PACIFIC FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS now realize for the holders from TWELVE TO EIGHTEEN PER CENT. ADVANTAGE, with the same rate of interest.

The following are the current rates (September 9th), subject, of course, to slight variations from day to day. We receive in exchange:

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING.

Proclamation by the President.

the President of the United States of America —A Proclamation.

n conformity with a recent custom that may w be regarded as established on national sent and approval, I, Andrew Johnson sident of the United States, do hereby re- mmend to my fellow citizens that Thursday, 28th day of November next, be set apart and served throughout the republic as a day of tional Thanksgiving and praise to the Al- ghty Ruler of nations with whom are do- nion and fear, and who makes peace in His h places, resting and retaining from secular or on that day. Let us reverently and de- tedly give thanks to our Heavenly Father the mercies and blessings with which he has owned the now closing year; especially let us member that he has covered our land ough all its extent with greatly needed and y abundant harvest; that he has caused lustry to prosper not only to our fields but o in our forests. He has permitted us to ltiply ships upon our lakes and rivers d upon the high seas, and, at the same ne, to extend our iron roads so far o the secluded places of the continent to guarantee speedy overland intercourse be- een the two oceans. He has inclined our arts to turn away from domestic contentions d commotions consequent upon a distracting d desolating civil war, and to walk more and ore in the ways of ancient loyalty, concilia- on and brotherly love. He has blessed the aceful efforts with which we have established w and important commercial treaties with reign nations: while we have at the same ne strengthened our national defenses and eatly enlarged our national borders. While us rendering the unanimous and heartfelt ibute of national praise and thanksgiving hich is so justly due to Almighty God, let us t fail to implore Him that the same Divine otection and care which we have hitherto so ndeservedly, and yet so constantly, enjoyed, ay be continued to our country and our people rough all the generations forever.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my nd and caused the seal of the United States be affixed.

one at the City of Washington, the 26th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-second. ANDREW JOHNSON.

the President.
WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

MEXICO.

eplorable Condition of the Country.

A letter dated City of Mexico, October 5, says: present the people and country seem in a ir way of relapsing into their former unsettled d disturbed state. We have rumors of a rev- ution in the State of Guerrero, and on the est Coast it would seem that they acknowl- ge no dependence upon the supreme Govern- ent established in this city. Robberies of the ost daring character are daily committed with e utmost impunity, all over the country— en in close proximity to the capital, and the rracks of large bodies of troops. Scarcely a y passes that we do not hear of a diligence ing stopped by armed bands of from five to e hundred men, the escorts either being iven off or disarmed, and the pas- ngers stripped of everything, even to their derclothing. Equestrian parties for exercise pleasure, from this city, dare not ride many les from the Main Plaza, without being nu- rous and well armed. An attempt was even de a short time since, to throw the train m this city to Apizaco, on the line to Vera uz, off the track, by obstructing it with a of cross ties, in order to rob it. This is ace and security with vengeance. Robberies re occasionally committed during the Em- re; but nothing like what we are having now; d then the troops generally managed to pun- the depredators. No attempt is made to do now—at least we do not hear of any such orts.

It is impossible to give you any adequate ea of the amount of suffering from absolute ant now being experienced all over the land. undreds of families who have never hitherto own want, and many who have rolled in ealth, are to-day in a state of great destitu- on; and it is no unusual circumstance to see ell-dressed ladies and gentlemen begging on e streets, in order to obtain daily bread. Sev- al charitable societies have been formed and e taking up subscriptions for the relief the families of political prisoners, it in consequence of the total sus- nsion of all business throughout e Republic, and the great drain which all have perienced by the Government impressments, ans and imposts, money is very scarce, and ven those reputed and considered rich are un- ble to do much toward the assistance of the fferers. We are indeed passing through a d and gloomy period, and it is very certain at if a change is not effected soon to repro- uce confidence and re-establish trade, many ousands will be hopelessly ruined, and all reigners will be obliged to leave the country. lready a large number of French subjects ave been sent to France through the instru- entality of the French Consuls, and many thers will doubtlessly follow.

Another letter says: Almost every French- an in Mexico is preparing to leave, as well as vast number of Mexican Imperialists, and specially the families of such political prison- rs as are free to depart. Most of them are ex- emely poor, and really in want of the actual ecessaries of life. A subscription list has een put in circulation for their benefit, and has een open for two weeks, yet the pitiful sum of 75 is all that has yet been contributed. This esult is attributable to the fact that the Gov- rnment watches those who subscribe, and they re "spotted" as Imperial sympathizers.

Liberal Christianity in Chicago.

A large meeting was held at the Opera House n Chicago, Sunday evening, under the auspices f the Chicago Christian Mission, which Society vas then formally inaugurated. In explana- ion of the objects of the Society we quote from he address of Wirt Dexter, Esq. He said:

Believing that every man settles matters of doctrine for himself, what is it that, as a soci- ty, we propose to do? Just this: Establish a eadquarters with a reading-room—a place where we can meet and exchange views. Our ntellectual work will be to enforce, build up, and spread this principal of universal toleration. Our practical work, and this is the greater, is to id in carrying on a general relief society for he distribution of food and clothing to the poor, disconnected utterly from any religious instruc- ions, evangelical or unevangelical. When per- ons apply for relief, they are to be asked noth- ng about their belief in future punishment or he Trinity, but simply if they believe they are hungry. In this part of our effort we hope to have all unite, with a fair representation of all interests and all sides—orthodox and dissenters. All will unite unless they care more for their sect and creed than they do for the poor. Creeds may be important, but they never fed a hungry man; they never clothed a naked man. Charity is an act, not a sentiment. How trifling are questions of doctrine in comparison with the great demands of charity. How controversy becomes dwarfed in the presence of actual mis- ery. A great practical charity like this is suffi- cient for any man. We may be satisfied if we go no further. As our hands become hardened in this work, our hearts will become soft and warm, until in trying to save the poor, they will save us. In trying to love our fellow man, whom we have seen, we shall reach the great Author of love, whom we have not seen, who holds us, of all nations and sects, like a rose- bud in the hollow of His hand—who because He is a perfect Being made us with a perfect pur- pose to a perfect end.

"About Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase),
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, within the moonlight of his room,
Making it rich, like a lily in bloom,
An angel writing in a book of gold;
Exceeding peace, had made Ben Adhem bold,
And to the presence in the room he said,
What writest thou? The vision raised its head,
And with a look made of sweet accord
Answered, 'The names of those who loved the Lord.'
And is mine one? said Abou, 'Nay, not so,'
Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low
But cleanly still, and said, 'I pray thee then,
Write me as one that loves his fellow-men.'
The angel wrote and vanished. The next night
It came again with great awakening light,
And showed the names whom love of God had blessed,
And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest."

Farmers and the Wool Business.

The Detroit Post remarking on the "general disposition among farmers to thin out their flocks," in consequence of the unsatisfactory condition of the wool market, says: "We be- lieve this is a mistaken policy. For the last twenty years we doubt if an instance can be cited in which either high prices for wool or extreme low ones have ruled more than three years consecutively. In disposing of their sheep on account of low prices, and enlarging their flocks on account of high ones, farmers have therefore worked steadily against their own interests. By the time they work them- selves into the position of small producers, prices are almost certain to be remunerative, and vice versa. At the present juncture there is a double motive for retaining possession of sheep, for by the time the stock of goods that was in the country at the time of the enactment of the tariff shall have become worked off, wool growers will begin to reap the benefit of that measure which they could not do when the country was literally flooded with goods, part of which came into the country under the old tariff. Unprofitable as wool growing has been during the past season, if there is any truth in the adage that misery loves company, our farm- ers can derive some consolation from the fact that they did better with wool than those who invested in it after it left their hands."

SPECIAL NOTICE.

☞ CAUSE AND EFFECT.—If HOFF'S MALT EXTRACT HEALTH BEVERAGE proves its great value as a dietetic, nourishing, and healing remedy by its enormous consumption throughout the world during the past eighteen years; if the scientific bodies of all civilized countries have united in its praise and bestowed upon its originator many medals and diplomas; if the most eminent physicians recommend it in their practice to their debilitated patients, and to those suffering from diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs, or afflicted with dyspepsia, Foul Stomach, Loss of Appetite, etc; if its introduction into the principal hospitals of Europe and America has done wonders, as the official reports will testify, then we feel that the American public are justified in their appreciation of its great value, and in their discrimination between Hoff's Malt Extract Health Beverage and the innumerable so-called remedies and tonics of the day, which are short-lived by reason of the slight foundation on which they build their reputation; but Hoff's Malt Extract Health Beverage has been steadily increasing its consumption for the past eighteen years, and is more popular to-day than ever, and wherever introduced has met with well-merited success.

Hoff's Malt Extract Depot, 542 Broadway, New York. Price $6 per dozen; 60 per bottle. Sold at Druggists and Grocers.

☞ HOLLOWAY'S PILLS AND OINTMENT.—Health and Happiness are the twin sisters which render existence pleasant and agreeable, for the enjoyment of life depends, in a great measure, on the state of the health. None need despair who suffer from dyspepsia, pulmonary affections, nervous disorders, ulcers, scrofula, piles, or fistulas, while these famous medicines offer not only an antidote but a radical cure. They have had the most marvelous success in the worst types of diseases which afflict the human race. Sold at all Druggists.

☞ "METCALFE, THE EMINENT PHARMACEUTIST, has discovered a remedy for Rheumatism, which he believes to be infallible. We are personally cognizant of some extraordinary cures it has effected. The price is trifling—one dollar only—and many men would cheerfully give fifty for a certain cure of this dreadful and wide-spread disease. Metcalfe is advertising this remedy in all the leading papers of the country, and the sale of his GREAT RHEUMATIC REMEDY is already very extensive."—Brooklyn Times.

BRICK MACHINE,

BRICK MANUFACTURING CO.

This Machine takes the clay direct from the bank, (without the preparation, by soaking, necessary for "soft mud" machines), and tempers it thoroughly, pressing, in steel moulds, brick stiff enough to be packed up eight high in the yard as made. For cutting with the trowel, bearing hard usage, and making a strong, true wall, there are no better brick known. The cost of making them by this machine is from 93 cents to $1 10 per 1,000, according to the rates of wages. This we guarantee. The machine is built entirely of iron and steel; and in the best style for strength and permanent use in working clay. Apply for circulars, giving full information, at the office,

CITY MATTERS.

ALLEGHENY LOCK-UP.—Mayor Morrison had four common cases before him yesterday morning. None of the prisoners had any money, and His Honor discharged them all with a reprimand.

A DEFINITE ANSWER.—A witness in Court, yesterday, in answer to a question as to the character of the defendant, for peace and good order, answered with a great deal of emphasis: It is "genuine."

TAKEN TO THE REFUGE.—The boy Kleinheist, who was arrested by the Allegheny police on Sunday at the instigation of his father, for incorrigibility, was committed to the House of Refuge yesterday by Mayor Morrison.

THE TEMPERANCE REFORM MOVEMENT.—Mr Thomas T. Everett, of Pittsburgh Division, No. 42, S. of T., addressed a large meeting of Corinthian Chapter No. 2, T. and W., at their hall on Fourth street, last evening. Representatives from the various lodges of the order in this city were present.

HARPER'S BAZAR.—The second number of this new fashion publication has been received, and is fully equal to the initial number in its contents and general appearance. It is rich in fashion illustrations and descriptions thereof, while its reading for the home circle is pleasant and instructive. Pittock and Gildenfenney have it for sale.

BOARDING HOUSE CLUBS.—The boarders in several large boarding houses of the city, are talking of organizing literary societies. Mention is made of one house in which the boarders are fitting up an unoccupied second story room for a hall, where the members of the large family will hold semi-weekly meetings.

CORRECTION.—In our notice yesterday morning of a call to the Rev. Herrick Johnson, D. D., late pastor of the Third Presbyterian (N. S.) Church in this city, it should have been stated that the call came from the First Presbyterian (N. S.) Church, of Philadelphia, of which the Rev. Albert (not Alfred) Barnes, author of "Barnes' Notes on the Gospel," was recently the pastor.

ERRONEOUS.—A statement has been going the rounds of the Western papers to the effect that the Labor Reform party would meet in State Convention in this city on the 5th of November. This is an error and probably grew out of the fact that a City Convention, to take action on the nomination for Mayor of this city, is to be held on that day. A State Convention will be held at this place in the Spring.

SOLDIERS' LEAGUE ROOMS.—The Allegheny County Soldiers' League and Library Association are about changing the location of their rooms, as their present place of meeting, No. 73 Federal street, Allegheny, cannot be secured after the first of next April. They have negotiated with the proprietors of Quincy Hall, on Lacock street, and as soon as arrangements can be made they will take possession of the latter place.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—A young man named Harry Evans met with a painful accident yesterday morning, at the pipe works of Messrs. Evans, Dalzell & Co., on the corner of First and Market streets. Evans, who is a son of one of the members of the firm, it appears, was engaged working at one of the planing machines, when his sleeve caught in the machinery, forcing his hand into the planer and lacerating it in a frightful manner. Mr. Evans was taken to the office of a Surgeon near by, where his wound was dressed. He resides in South Pittsburgh.

PRELIMINARY INJUNCTIONS ISSUED.—In the United States Circuit Court, yesterday, Judge McCandless directed that in the cases of James Wood vs. F. H. Oliphant, Geo. W. Paul, the New Castle Manufacturing Company, and White, Harbaugh & Gaskill, preliminary injunctions issued to restrain an alleged infringement of patents, the injunctions to remain in force until a final hearing, or further orders. It will be remembered that the arguments in the above cases were heard several days ago. It is alleged that the defendants have infringed the Kenyon patents for manufacturing iron nuts.

Messrs. Phelps, Parke & Co.

In another column will be found an announcement to the effect that Mr. Joseph P. Estep has been admitted into the well-known firm of Messrs. Phelps, Parke & Co., wagon manufacturers, of this city. The old firm of Messrs. Phelps, Parke & Co. expired by limitation a few weeks since, and the new firm is composed of Messrs. Wheeler H. Phelps, John E. Parke and Joseph P. Estep. The style of the firm remains unchanged. Messrs. Phelps and Parke are so well and favorably known to the business public that we need say nothing in regard to their tact, enterprise and fidelity. The firm has been extensively known and widely patronized throughout the West and South during the past ten years, and the character of their work has firmly established them in the good opinion of all their patrons. Mr. Estep, although not a member of the firm until now, has been with them and their predecessors in business for the past fifteen years. He is thoroughly acquainted with the business in all its details, and his admission into the firm not only carries with it a high endorsement of his abilities, but is a just tribute to his worth and fidelity as an employee. Long and faithful service entitles him to this mark of confidence, and to a share in the profits of the business. This is a kind of promotion which is unfortunately too rare among business men, and we note it with the greater pleasure.

We need scarcely remind our readers that the firm of Phelps, Parke & Co., is one of the oldest, as well as most enterprising and successful of our manufacturing establishments. They are extensively engaged in the manufacture of all kinds of wagons, carts, drays, wheelbarrows, trucks, etc.; and their brand is a sufficient guarantee of the strength, durability and general utility of the article containing it. Their trade is principally in the West and South, but they make large sales in this and the adjoining counties, and contribute in no small degree to the general prosperity of the community. We wish the new firm abundant success.

Police Intelligence.

MONDAY, October 28.

[Before Alderman McMasters.]

ALLEGED WIFE BEATING.

Mrs. Hannah Bowman, yesterday brought suit against her husband, George Bowman, charging him with assault and battery. The parties live in Denny's alley, in the Third ward, and on Saturday night, Mrs. Bowman alleges, her husband came home, when she asked him for some money. He refused to give her any, and then commenced using hard language towards her and finally, it is alleged, struck her twice on the face and kicked her on the back. He was arrested and held to bail for a hearing.

FALSE PRETENSES.

Thomas Dorris, livery stable keeper on Sixth street, near Grant, lodged complaint against Patrick Baughn, for false pretenses, alleging that the latter obtained carriage hire from him to the amount of five dollars by representing that he had money coming to him from a gentleman in Allegheny and that he would soon pay him, which representations were false. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

KICKED OUT OF A PARTY.

John Drystot was charged with assault and battery, on oath of Michael McCulloch. The parties reside at Beck's Run, in Baldwin township, and McCulloch states that he was invited to a party held at Drystot's on last Friday night. About midnight, while the party was going on, Drystot, it is alleged, caught hold of McCullough, without any provocation whatever, and coolly kicked him out of the house. The defendant has not yet been arrested.

[Before Alderman Strain.]

TERRIBLE THREATS.

Robert Mannell was charged yesterday with surety of the peace, on oath of Albert Michael, who alleges that Mannell threatened to "break every bone in his body," and to kill him. The parties live at Glendale Station, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, in Ohio township. The accused has not yet been arrested.

[Before Alderman Lindsey, of Sixth Ward.]

RELEASED ON BAIL.

Sarah Kinsey, who was committed to jail by this Alderman some time since, on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, was released yesterday on bail.

[Before Alderman Lynch.]

ARREST OF ALLEGED GAMBLERS.

R. R. Logan and H. W. Olney, residents of Allegheny, were arrested yesterday and taken before this Alderman, charged, on oath of John Barry, with being common gamblers. The prosecutor hails from the Venango oil regions, and alleges that on the 19th instant, the defendants enticed him into a house kept by a man named Smith, formerly a restaurant keeper in the First ward, and there won from him over fifty dollars by playing cards. The prosecutor also alleges that from information received the defendants are common gamblers and make gambling a business. The case was held for a hearing.

[Before Alderman Taylor.]

ASSAULTED HIM.

John Blake yesterday entered complaint against Wm. Hahn, wagon maker on Webster street, in the Sixth Ward, for assault and battery. In his information the prosecutor states that he was in the employ of the defendant, and that he went to him on Saturday and asked him for his wages, when, he alleges, Hahn attacked him and beat and abused him badly. A warrant has been issued.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Christina Shaler, charged with fraud, on oath of Winnifred Davis, was committed to jail for trial, in default of five hundred dollars bail.

RELEASES FROM JAIL.

Wm. G. Berry, committed to jail on the 25th inst., by this magistrate, on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Fred. L. Hackel, yesterday gave bail for his appearance and was released.

The Alderman also released on bail John O'Brien, committed to jail on the 24th inst., to answer a charge of committing an assault and battery upon Allen McCloy.

[Before Alderman Thomas.]

MALICIOUS MISCHIEF AND ASSAULT.

Mary Ann Cuff preferred an information before Alderman Thomas, charging Mary Cuff with malicious mischief. The prosecutrix alleges that the defendant wilfully destroyed goods that she was selling for her support, consisting of laces, spools of thread and a bonnet, the whole valued at $12 46.

Another information was preferred against the same defendant, by the same prosecutrix, for assault and battery. It is alleged by the prosecutrix that defendant threw water over herself and child. A hearing was had in both cases, when the defendant was committed to jail in default of bail.

THREATENED HIM.

George S. Brown made information charging Geo. Vollmer with surety of the peace. The prosecutor alleges that the defendant threatened to kill him with an ax, while he was looking after some stock, which had been levied upon by the Deputy Sheriff, who had given him authority to do so. A hearing was had, and the defendant held to bail for Court. The parties reside in Oakland township.

TUESDAY, October 29.

[Before Alderman McMasters.]

DISORDERLY BAWDY HOUSE.

Mr. A. Anderson, a resident of New Brighton, Beaver county, yesterday lodged an information against a Mrs. Brawdy, living on Liberty street, in the Ninth ward, charging her with keeping a disorderly bawdy house. Mr. Anderson states that on Monday evening he and a Mr. McIntosh, from Beaver county, arrived in the city, and went in search of a boarding house. On going out Liberty street, they seen the words "boarding" on Mrs. Brawdy's house, and entering the house they inquired if they could secure boarding. They were immediately confronted by half a dozen women, when the boarding house seekers discovered the character of the house. They excused themselves and were about leaving the house, when they were confronted by some eight men with pistols, who forced them to give them five dollars each before leaving. Mr. Anderson yesterday morning then made information against the keeper of the house, Mrs. Brawdy, for keeping a bawdy house. The accused was arrested, and after a hearing was held in five hundred dollars bail for trial.

THREATENED TO KILL HIM.

Wm. Divine brought suit yesterday morning against Wm. Cullamine, for surety of the peace. The parties live on Basin alley, in the Sixth ward. Divine states that Cullamine has been paying considerable attention to his (Divine's) wife for some time past, and that a few days ago he informed Mr. Cullamine that fewer visits to his household would be agreeable to him. A night or two afterwards Cullamine came to Divine's door, and, it is alleged, told Divine that he would kill him and then take his wife. Mr. Divine being in bodily fear that Cullamine might carry his threats into execution, entered suit against him, as stated. The defendant was arrested and after a hearing was held to bail to keep the peace, and also held to answer at the December term of Court.

[Before Alderman Butler.]

CROSS-SUITS.

Fanny Splane and Thomas Smith entered cross-suits against each other before this Alderman yesterday for assault and battery. The parties live on Miltenberger's alley, in the Tenth ward. Fanny was on trial in Court on Monday for keeping a bawdy house, and after the adjournment of Court she had a difficulty with Smith in regard to the case, which resulted in a fisticuff between them and cross-suits before Alderman Butler. Both cases were held for a hearing.

ARRESTED ON A PROCESS.

Patrick McGrady, a resident of Pitt township, was arrested yesterday by tipstave J. C. Smith, on a process issued by the Court for illegal liquor selling, and was committed to the county jail.

[Before Alderman Donaldson.]

ALLEGED LARCENY BY BAILEE.

Thomas H. Carroll, bar-keeper at Kneeland's saloon, in the Diamond, made an information yesterday against Michael Spamm and a man named Mullerron, charging them with larceny by bailee. The prosecutor relates that on Monday he lost a twenty dollar note in the yard attached to Kneeland's tavern, and that the defendants found it. Carroll went to them and claimed the money as his, but, he alleges, they refused to return it—hence the suit. Spamm was arrested by officer Parker and held for a hearing. Mullerron is not yet in custody.

THE CITY ELECTIONS.

Meeting of the City Executive Committee—Primary Elections to be Held on Saturday, Nov. 16th—Nominating Convention on Monday, Nov. 18th—The Delegate System Adopted.

The City Republican Executive Committee met last evening in the office of A. M. Brown, Esq., on Fifth street, for the purpose of making arrangements for the election of candidates for the offices of Mayor, Controller, Treasurer and City Attorney, to be voted for at the election in December. The Committee was called to order by Mr. Thomas W. Davis, the Chairman, and the roll being called, twenty-nine members answered to their names.

On motion of Mr. House it was resolved that the primary meeting be held in the various wards on Saturday afternoon, November 16th, between the hours of three and six o'clock, the Nominating Convention to meet in the Council Chambers on Monday, November 18th.

The question as to whether the Crawford county or delegate system should be adopted, was discussed at some length, the representatives from the new districts strongly favoring the latter plan. A vote being taken, resulted in the choice of the delegate system—twenty-three members recording their votes in its favor.

Mr. Sims moved that two delegates be elected from each district, and that the election be by ballot. Adopted.

After some discussion it was decided that the primary meeting be held in the usual places of election, except in the case of the Third and Sixth wards. The Third ward voters will meet at the Court House, and both precincts of the Sixth ward at the School House.

The Republican Judges and Inspectors of the various wards were requested to conduct the elections, and power granted them to fill vacancies.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

A Double Accident—Man Struck by Two Trains.

On Saturday afternoon last an Englishman named Joseph Smith was knocked from the Pennsylvania Railroad track by a passing freight train, at the west end of the tunnel near Redebaugh's, and just at this moment another train came along and knocked him between the two tracks. He was taken to Greensburg and Dr. Lomison summoned, who attended to his injuries, which consisted of a terrible wound on the head, raising the scalp and leaving the bare skull exposed over the left side and top of the head, besides some slight bruises. He was conveyed to the poor house the same evening. It is thought he will recover. He was on his way to Pittsburgh, and had been in this country but a short time.

ABE LINCOLN LODGE, No. 22, I. O. of G. T.—At a regular meeting of Abe. Lincoln Lodge No. 22, I. O. of G. Malaria Everywhere.

Rarely has there been a season as fruitful as this of malarious diseases. Not only on the prairies and in the valleys of the West; not merely in all the old haunts of Fever and Ague and Bilious Remittent Fever have these prostrating diseases been unusually virulent; but they have extended to towns and cities never before infested with them, and have even ascended the mountains and attacked thousands of people supposed to have been placed by the laws of Nature, above their reach. Hence we are compelled to admit that a fatal element pervades the Universal air this season, and should at once resort to the only approved preventive of its consequences, HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, a tonic so potent, an anti-septic so perfect, an alterative so irresistible, and a stimulant so pure that it enables the human system to resist and baffle all the predisposing causes of disease. With the confidence that one clothed in incombustible garments might move among blazing buildings, the man who arms himself against malaria with this powerful defensive medicine may walk a fever-scourged district fearless of its insalubrious atmosphere. The intermittents and remittents at present so general in all parts of the country may be but the forerunners of a deadlier scourge now on its way westward from the far East. Prepare the system with HOSTETTER'S BITTERS for a successful battle with the mephitic causes of all epidemics. Be wise in time.

TESTIMONIAL

FROM

Hon. M. C. Beebe,

OF

Pleasantville, Crawford Co., Pa.

Dr. Aborn, No. 134 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa.:

Dear Sir—Some five years ago my son Willie commenced showing symptoms of catarrh of the head, which continued to grow worse until his system was so debilitated as to preclude an active enjoyment of the sports of childhood or pursue any system of study, or attend at school, and at times was entirely prostrated with lingering fever—some times, for weeks together, with a constant manifestation of the symptoms of the disease, such as a constant hacking, nostril discharges, &c., irritation of the throat, &c., causing nausea. All the usual appliances and treatment of physicians, etc., had failed to afford relief until you were applied to during your professional visit at Titusville last winter, when he began to improve immediately after commencing your treatment, and continued to improve until now he enjoys a good state of health, and is able to participate in the active sports of childhood with zest, as well as pursue his studies without interruption. I have omitted to make this statement heretofore, as I wished to be satisfied that the relief was permanent.

Respectfully yours,

M. C. BEEBE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

TUESDAY EVENING, October 29, 1867.

The discount market retains its stringent features, but the applications consequent upon this continued closeness are not so numerous. No encouragement is given for outsiders to offer their paper at banks. To afford any reasonable accommodations to depositors and customers the banks have to discount up closely, and it is utterly out of the question to consider any other class of customers. There is no change in the current rates for money, which can be placed at as high a figure as we have ever known it to be.

—The Herald reports the railway share market as throughout unsettled, and one of the worst features was the decline of the sound dividend paying securities, while some comparatively worthless stocks remained firm. No surer sign of the artificial character of the support it is receiving could be found; but some of the leading bulls show a degree of pluck and steady endurance which is deserving of success. At the same time the street shows very little pluck on the bear side, being fearful of a twist, from the bull cliques, and very prudently so, for the latter have still the power to make the most of the "short" interest. The natural tendency of the market is downward, however, for the prices of the non-dividend paying stocks are much above their present value, although prospectively they may be worth considerably more, and there is no outside support to it, while even the street itself is more bearish than bullish. Temporarily, notwithstanding all this, prices may advance in consequence of the unexpected ease in money; but it is a very dangerous market to hold stocks on, and at the same time no prudent man would sell them "short;" and, therefore, we repeat our warning to those who are out of Wall street to remain out of it.

The quotations at noon to-day were as follows:

Michigan Southern	77⅞
Cleveland & Pittsburgh	81⅛
Pittsburgh, Ft. Wayne & Chicago	97
Erie	72⅛
Chicago & Northwestern	48⅝

—Depositors are complaining of the conduct of their respective banks in refusing the accommodation they have a right to expect and at the same loaning their funds to stock houses on call. The banks, however, in view of their constrained resources, decline discounting, unless to a very limited extent, in favor of their best customers, and prime paper received in this way they take at seven per cent., while outside the banks the rate varies from eight to twelve per cent., with considerable difficulty in negotiating it. It is to be hoped that the banks will make special efforts, now that money is easy on call, to extend their discount line not in the form of the discounts of produce paper for the Western banks so much as among the merchants and traders of the city, for the existing stringency is crippling business and inspiring distrust in all branches of trade.—N. Y. Herald of Monday.

—The defalcation (if such it can be called) of David D. Michaels, the proprietor of a daily commercial circular, was the engrossing topic of conversation in business circles to-day. Mr. Michaels was well known in business circles here, and has for some time past been operating to a greater or less extent in provisions. He had gained the confidence of quite a number of our leading provision men, and until recently had been prompt in meeting all engagements. The large decline of late in the prices of pork and lard caused him serious losses, and to redeem these he resorted to the issuing of forged warehouse receipts on pork and lard. He gained the confidence of his banker, and the Manufacturers' National loses about $10,000 through his forgeries. He obtained money from personal friends by the same means, and it is estimated that $50,000 will not pay the liabilities he has incurred. The particulars, so far as they are known, are given elsewhere. Mr. Michaels has disappeared, and it is thought he has gone to Canada.—Chicago Republican.

—There was no material change to note in the money market on Saturday. Borrowers were as numerous as ever, and money was to be had by those who had the right kind of security to offer for it; but lenders exercised the sharpest sort of discrimination. Call loans were easy enough at 7 per cent., where the credit of the borrower and the security offered in pledge were altogether satisfactory, not otherwise. First-class short time bills, based on real sales of property, are taken by the banks and discounted at bank rates; but long paper, and most of that known as accommodation paper is thrown out. On the street some little commercial paper is done at 8 to 10 per cent., but the business of the bill broker is pretty much confined to the sale of irregular paper—four months notes of railroad and canal companies, and such as is refused by the banks—hence their difficulty in negotiating it, and the high rate of 1 to 1½ per cent. per month to which they have to submit.—Philadelphia Ledger.

—The money market acquires no symptoms of greater ease; though the pressure of first-class paper is hardly as great as it was. Its place, however, is filled with that of inferior repute which stands excessive rates of interest. As matters now stand, pork merchants will have practical reasons for insisting upon low prices for hogs, since such assistance as they may be able to get from their banks will have to be paid for at such rates as to affect materially the margins for profits.—Cin. Com.

PITTSBURGH OIL TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, WEDNESDAY, October 30, 1867.

BUSINESS—The market yesterday was dull and devoid of activity. We have seldom noticed less disposition to operate at the present prices. The Eastern market was dull and buyers refused to take hold unless concessions were made. In New York standard white was dull and prices declined to 31½c ₱ gallon; crude oil sold at 14@14½c in bulk. Refined Oil—In our own market the sales and prices were as follows: 1,000 bbls standard white, October, Philadelphia, at 32½c; sales 1,000 bbls November, 33⅛c, buyer's option; 500 bbls do, buyer's option, 33½c; sales 500 bbls do, spot, Philadelphia, 32½c.

CRUDE OIL—We have nothing new to note. The market was dull, with the advantages on the side of buyers. The only sales that came under our notice were 5,000 bbls tank oil on spot, at terms that were not made public. The best offer, for first water, was 10c ₱ gallon. Other sales were talked of, but had not been consummated up to the close.

FOREIGN MARKET.

From the circular of Belding, Keith & Co., London, October 12th, 1867, we extract the following report in regard to petroleum: "We have had a steady market for American refined during the past week, the continued improved quotations from America being responded to here; 1s 7d has been readily paid for standard white on the spot, and is 8½d for December delivery. A cargo of 1,163 bbls standard white afloat has been sold, with the option, it is reported, of going to U. K. or Continent, at 1s 7½d ₱ gallon delivered terms. The market closes firm, but quiet at 1s 7d spot, 1s 8½d November—December, and 1s 9d November and January. Petroleum spirit and 1s 4d is asked. Coal oils quiet. Stocks now better; 1s 4d is asked. Coal oils quiet. Stocks now are 66,183 bbls refined, and 757 bbls crude, against 64,921 bbls refined, and 7,328 bbls crude same time last year.

OIL CITY, October 29, 1867.

PRODUCE AND GENERAL MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH COMMERCIAL, TUESDAY EVENING, October 29, 1867.

Trade to-day was dull in most branches of business, but merchants wear a better look, in anticipation of an early rise in the river, of which at present there is every indication. Should navigation be resumed there is no doubt but that there would be a general revival of trade.

The receipts of some of the leading articles of produce, since our last, were as follows: Flour 480 bbls; apples 1,531 bbls; corn 761 sacks; wheat 383 sacks; barley 600 sacks; rye 337 sacks; oats 502 sacks.

We quote as follows, which are the wholesale store prices unless otherwise noted:

BUTTER—Receipts inadequate to supply the demand, at 38@40c for choice table. Medium sells at prices ranging from 26@30c ₱ lb.

EGGS—Receipts light and demand good at 26@28c ₱ dozen.

APPLE BUTTER—We note sales at 85c ₱ gallon.

BEANS—We note sales of choice at $3 75 ₱ bushel.

DRIED FRUITS—Sales reported of Tennessee peaches at 12½c ₱ lb, and Apples at 8½c ₱ lb.

CIDER—Sales reported of 22 bbls, at from $7 00@8 00 ₱ bbl, as to size of bbl.

CRANBERRIES—Sales of 10 bbls Cultivated at $14 00, and 6 bbls common at $12 50 ₱ bbl reported.

APPLES—The market is overstocked with Apples at present, and they must be very choice to bring over $3 50 ₱ bbl.

POTATOES—We have reported sales of 1 car Peach Blow Potatoes at $1 15 ₱ bush, but the general price is $1 00@1 05. Sales of Jersey Sweets were made at $4 00@5 00 ₱ bbl.

BACON—Trade moderately active at 23c for sugar cured hams; 22c for plain sugar cured hams, and 14½c for shoulders.

LARD—We quote lard at 14½@14¾c ₱ lb in kegs. Sales of country were made at 14½c ₱ lb.

MESS PORK—Dull at 23c ₱ bbl.

FEATHERS—We note sales, from first hands, of Tennessee feathers at 80@85c ₱ lb, as to quantity purchased.

OATS—Receipts light. Sales of several lots, on platform, noted at 65c, and from store at 68c ₱ bushel.

BARLEY—The offerings are light. Maltsters are offering $1 30 @ bushel for spring and $1 40 for fall. Sales reported of 1,600 bushels spring and 1 car of fall at these figures.

RYE—There continues a fair demand from distillers, who are paying $1 50@1 55 ₱ bushel for No. 1, and the receipts appear inadequate to supply the demand.

WHEAT—Receipts light. We quote red winter in demand, by millers, at $2 50@2 60 ₱ bushel, and white wheat at $2 60@2 70 ₱ bushel.

FLOUR—Market more active and country orders large. Much to the surprise of our dealers here, good spring Wheat brands are selling from store at $10 75@11, and Winter Wheat at $12 25@12 50. Jenkins's Lilly is quoted at $11 25 ₱ barrel. We quote Rye flour at $8 75@9 ₱ barrel, and Buckwheat flour at $6 ₱ hundred. The City Mill prices are as follows:

	Barrels.	In Paper Sacks, ₱ bbl.	Retail, in bbls.
St Louis	$13 10	$12 80	$13 75
City Mills	12 30	12 00	13 00

Retail, white wheat, in sacks, $3 40, and red wheat flour $3 20 @ sack.

FEED—Mill prices for shorts, per hundred, wholesale, $1 00, and middlings $2 50 per hundred. The following are the Washington street mill prices: Corn meal, ₱ bushel, $1 35; chop corn and oats, ₱ hundred, $2 60; chop corn, ₱ hundred, $2 60, and corn bran, ₱ hundred, $1 50. Sales reported of 2 cars middlings, at depot, at $1 40 ₱ hundred.

WHISKY—We have reported sales of city rectified at $2 05@2 10 ₱ gal, and some as low as $2 00 ₱ gal. A choice article must bring a higher figure, or else be illicit. Old Monongahela is quoted at from $3 00@6 00 ₱ gal, as to quality and age.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

CHICAGO.

Cattle—Including those left over from the previous week, there have not been less than 13,000 head of beeves, which number, says the Tribune, as the result has proven, has exceeded the legitimate wants of the trade by nearly 3,000 head, this number remaining in the pens unsold at the close of the market on Saturday evening. Trade opened dull and heavy, and has ruled sluggish throughout. The result is largely due to the inferior quality of the arrivals. Perhaps for no week during the season have the offerings been so uniformly of a low order of stock. Rough, half-fattened steers, "scallawag" cows, light heifers, coarse bony oxen and Texas cattle, have been the rule and desirable qualities the exception. The demand has been restricted almost exclusively to the local trade, the "flat" condition of the markets below utterly precluding the idea of an active movement on the part of shippers. The decline of 1@1¼ cents in New York, and ¾c in Albany, destroyed their confidence and rendered extensive operations extremely hazardous. They have accordingly stood aloof, and of the 10,000 head taken up during the week, only 1,000 head were taken on Eastern account. The demand from packers, upon which drovers chiefly depended for absorption of this extensive and medium stock, failed them to some extent, the continued warm weather that has prevailed has materially lessened the demand from this quarter. The inquiry was generally for a better class of stock than is usually taken from the barrel, and consequently values for good to prime packing stock were materially enhanced, while for the poorer sorts prices were barely sustained. The prices paid ranged all the way from $2 00@3 75 for inferior to good Texas and from $2 for common to really good packing cattle. In one or two instances extravagant prices were paid. For one drove of choice, smooth steers, shipped from one of our city packers at $7 ₱ 100 lbs. Stock steers have been in reasonably active demand, but owing to the large supply of common stock offering sale, dragged somewhat, and prices paid ranged rather easier than during the preceding week. Feeders from Indiana and Ohio, and from some sections of Pennsylvania, were in attendance, and we note an active movement in their way into their section at $3 00@4 75, the outside for smooth steers from 1,000 to 1,100 lbs average. The demand for consumption, though by no means urgent, was sufficient to absorb most of this class offering—after the local and Eastern demand had been satisfied; and well sustained at $4 25@4 75. Several small lots were taken to meet the wants of the "Kinzie Street Market," at $3 50@4 00 for inferior to common mixed.

On Saturday there was a fair business transacted, and for the little good stock offering full prices were found at the ruling prices of Friday, but for the common stuff on sale, sales dragged heavily and prices ruled sensibly lower. Some 1,200 head were closed out on local account at a range of $2 50@3 75 for common to medium Texas, $2 25@4 25 for "scrubby cows," "scallawag" steers, coarse oxen, mixed lots, light heifers and Texas cattle, and $4@5 50 for common cows to good smooth packing steers. The demand was not sufficient to meet the legitimate trade for the coming week. With the exception of a slight decline in the lower grades, prices rang d substantially as at the close of the preceding week. The following were the

CLOSING PRICES:

Extra Beeves—Fine, fat, well formed, 4 to 6 year old steers, and averaging 1,400 lbs and upwards......$6 75@7 25

Prime Beeves—Good, well fatted, finely formed steers, averaging from 1,000 to 1,400 lbs, at......6 00@6 50

Fair Grades—Fair steers, in fair flesh, averaging 1,000@1,200 lbs, at......5 25@5 75

Medium Class—Medium steers and better cows, fit for city slaughter and averaging 800@1,000 lbs, at......3 50@4 75

Stock Cattle—Common cattle, in decent flesh, averaging 800@1,000 lbs, at......2 25@3 75

Inferior—Light and thin cows and steers......[illegible]

Hogs—The supply, though considerably below that of the previous week, has largely exceeded the demand, and the result has been a very material depreciation in values. The weather has been such that packers could not operate with any degree of safety, and with no urgency in the shipping demand sales have dragged heavily. Including those left over from last week, the total number on sale will not fall short of 32,000 head, of which some 30,000 head have found purchasers. With the exception of about 7,000 head taken by packers, shippers have been the almost exclusive operators. The average quality of the arrivals, though superior to that of last week, was hardly up to the requirements of the trade, the proportion of common, light, uneven lots, being too prominent. Should the weather continue mild, it is not reasonable to anticipate any considerable demand from packers during the coming week, and country buyers should temper their shipments accordingly.

On Saturday the market was dull and drooping. There were some 4,000 head in the pens, and as the demand was restricted chiefly to shippers, holders were bothered to realize, and in some instances a reduction of 20c was submitted to. Only 2,000 head changed hands. There were taken at a range of $5 00@5 50 for inferior to common, and $5 75@6 45 for fair to choice grades.

The following are the closing prices of the past week, compared with those of the previous:

	This week.	Last week.
Good to choice	$6 25@6 45	$6 35@6 60
Medium to fair	5 75@6 00	6 00@6 25
Common	5 00@5 50	5 25@5 75
Stock Hogs	3 75@4 50	4 00@4 75

Sheep—The receipts have been quite light during the past week, and especially is this true of good and choice mutton qualities. Still, no serious inconvenience has resulted from this fact, as the demand has been confined entirely to supplying the wants of the local trade; shippers not having taken a "hoof." Common descriptions have been neglected to a good extent, and in not a few instances holders have been compelled to concede liberally in order to realize. For good qualities prices have been thoroughly sustained, at $4 00@4 50. We quote good to choice, $4 00@4 50; common to medium, $2 00@3 75.

THE RIVER AND MATTERS ALONG THE WHARF.—Business on the landing was not very active. Below the suspension bridge, all was hope—for a rise of water. We confess that matters don't look very favorable to that end. The rain don't appear to be general. The reports from the head waters of the Allegheny were not at all favorable. From the Monongahela, reports were more favorable. The prospects for a rise of water in that stream were favorable. Above the bridge, trade was active. The packets of both lines are doing a large business.

WHITE river is navigable to Augusta for side wheel packets now running, and stern wheelers may reach Jacksonport by double tripping.

CAPT. John Rodgers left yesterday to make an examination of Bruno's Island on the left hand side. Among the crew were several pilots of noted reputation.

SNAGGED.—The steamer Commercial picked up a snag in White River, knocking a hole in her side. She reshipped on the Rowena, and returned to Memphis for repairs.

CINCINNATI ITEMS.—The steamer Anglo Saxon, recently purchased by Capt. John Kyle, will be rebuilt and well fitted and furnished for one of our packet trades.

Captain George Wolf is building a Red River packet at Cincinnati.

MUSCATINE.—Freights active. The Cricket, an independent boat, reached this port about nine o'clock last night, with a good trip. Here she had some trouble with her roustabouts, some of whom left, but she took on 800 sacks of grain and proceeded on her way.—Journal, 24th.

STEAMBOAT MEETING.—An adjourned meeting was held yesterday at the office of Flack & Co., Water street. The Constitution of the Cincinnati Society was adopted. Several persons were admitted as members. After an interchange of opinions the meeting adjourned until 10 A. M., on Wednesday morning. A full attendance is requested.

AN Omaha dispatch, dated the 24th, says: Fort Benton advices of the 3d of October, state that Mackinaw fleets are leaving that place nearly every day for the States. The steamer Imperial was aground fifty miles below Milk River, on the 28th. She had been aground four days, and was nearly out of provisions.

THE Chattanooga American Union, of Friday, says:

"The river is about down to the low water mark, and a great many obstructions in the channel are disclosed. We noticed a day or two since, among others, the wreck of the steamer Paint Rock, sunk in 1864. This, with the rest of the obstructions, will be removed in due time, we trust."

THE Kansas City Journal says that a solitary traveler has made the trip from St. Joseph to that point safely in a skiff, but while passing the bridge works his boat struck and instantly upset, the current carrying everything out of sight; he saved himself by clinging to a scow until rescued by some of the workmen, but his dog, boat and household goods sunk beneath the waters.

THE Paducah Herald says the hull of a new boat has been launched by Captain Edwin Murray, to receive the cabin and machinery of the steamer Gen. Sigel. This hull was built for Captain Dix and others to run in the Cumberland river trade, and is 140 feet in length, 27½ feet beam, with a 4 feet hold. With cabin, engines and outfit on board, she will not draw over 13 inches water.

PASSING AWAY.—The St. Louis Democrat of Saturday says: We learned yesterday, with unfeigned sorrow, of the death of C. C. Clement, who was well known as passenger agent of the Keokuk and the Atlantic line packets. He died at his home in this city, at Fourth and Market streets, his disease being pneumonia, and leaves a wife and two children. He was a brother-in-law of Capt. D. DeHaven. His life was insured for $5,000.

ST. LOUIS, October 26.—The Leonora and Silver Wave have been sold to a wrecker here, and will be dismantled. Negotiations are pending for the sale of the small side-wheeler Countess. The Huntsville arrived last evening from Cow Island, and goes on the docks for repairs. She was gone over 100 days and has been very successful. This year business is animated, and freights are reported abundant on the Missouri and Upper Mississippi with a slight rise in the latter stream; sixteen steamers are expected to leave this port to-day.

THE St. Louis Republican has the following: Among the passengers on the M. S. Mepham, yesterday, we noticed Capt. W. B. Donaldson, of the Great Republic, who, it appears, goes to Mound City to get his boat ready for the fall and winter business. By the way, speaking of the Great Republic, we are more than pleased to learn that our friend Capt. St. Clair Thomasson, the well known and popular steamboat Captain of Southern waters, will, during the coming season, have charge of the cabins of this magnificent steamer. The Great Republic will leave Cairo about the 12th of November.

THE railroads to St. Louis are reaping a rich harvest now in consequence of the long continued season of low water in the Ohio. The St. Louis Democrat some days ago cited as an evidence of the importance of St. Louis, that seven boats arrived at Memphis from that city in one day, while only one arrived from Cincinnati. The fact so triumphantly pointed to by our contemporary don't really prove so much if it be known that probably two-thirds of the cargoes of these seven St. Louis boats were made up of Cincinnati freight, shipped by rail to that city. It is not at all improbable that this is the truth of the matter. The railroads to St. Louis are now over crowded with business, and, on an average, two hundred tons of freight are dispatched daily by rail South via St. Louis. A gentleman just from that city says that for the receipts of freight from Cincinnati for reshipment South, business there would be very dull.

MEMPHIS—Friday's Avalanche says: There is no longer a quarantine station at Island No. 1, and boats are now permitted to go to Cairo without any detention.

A coal flat belonging to Bigley, Mellersh & Co., sunk in thirty feet of water at our landing on Wednesday night. It had nearly five thousand barrels of coal on board. The firm will lose by the accident about six thousand dollars.

On yesterday evening the tug Nellie, while proceeding toward the coal yard, and while opposite the foot of Washington street, exploded a steam pipe, which caused no little excitement on board and on shore. There was none of the crew injured, but we learn that the steward's side of the tug was badly wrecked by the explosion. She was towed to the upper landing. The Nellie also belongs to Bigley, Mellersh & Co.

THE Illinois Central Railroad Company continue to overwhelm the folks at Dubuque and Dunleith with its astonishing energy, wealth and enterprise. Dan. Hewitt intended for the company a barge which will transfer the cars over the river. There has arrived at Dunleith, says an exchange, from Chicago, the timber and other pieces for two complete barges, and in thirty days there fifty-two ship carpenters to put them together. These barges will be 150 feet by 34 feet beam, and will each carry five freight cars. Mound City for the same purpose. The Jo. Gales has been hauled off, and trucks are to be laid through her center for freight-cars, and she will be used for towing freight-cars boats exclusively, while the present one will be used for ferrying. The company intend to have facilities for the transfer of freight, both ways, of two hundred and twenty freight cars per day, if necessary, and thus, during the season of navigation, ship freight through without unloading at Dunleith.

We learn that the Central have ordered the building of a new ferry steamer at Pittsburgh, the same to be delivered at the opening of navigation next spring.

ST. LOUIS Democrat of Monday says: We understand that negotiations were about closed for the transfer of the little side-wheeler Countess to a new set of owners.

Captain W. B. Donaldson, of the famous Great Republic, arrived in this city on Thursday morning from Pittsburgh.

River business, or rather, receipts of produce by river last week were very good; but steamboat arrivals begin to exhibit again a falling off. The river channel has been improved in many places by the process of cutting out, but the absence of rain is sorely felt in a continued decline of the water. The weather has changed to warm and pleasant, and steamboats are being more than ever delayed by fogs. A very dense one lasted well into the day yesterday.

THE Memphis papers state that the Adam Jacobs took one thousand bales of cotton at that port for New York, via St. Louis. The Lizzie Gill, the pioneer boat in the new process of widening and lengthening, arrived at a late hour on Saturday night, having made a successful trip. The time from port to port was twenty-one days, with two barges. Capt. O'Neal expresses himself as perfectly satisfied with the Lizzie Gill in her present shape.

THE LIFE OF A LIVE STEAMBOATMAN.—We clip the following scraps from the forthcoming (?) biography of Captain Josh. Throop from the Cairo Democrat. Josh. is well known in these "diggins," and the "scraps" may interest some of his numerous friends:

The life of Captain Josh. Throop, who is now in our city, has been varied, interesting and wonderful. Forty-two years ago he kept a ferry at the mouth of the Big Miami. At the age of nineteen he could read the names of steamboats, and eat more mackerel than any young man in all that region of country. He never boasted about sucking eggs, but he could beat anybody cracking a whip, and at the fascinating game of "bull pen" was perfectly fearless.

When in Cincinnati he commenced the manufacture of blacking, his friends became solicitous for the preservation of his high moral character, and borrowed his money as fast as he made it to prevent his becoming habits of extravagance. At the age of twenty the charms of a fat woman who sold cracked hickory nuts on the corner captivated him. He "doated" on her, and with to his proposal of marriage the gentle creature said "Yuba dam" to him, he became utterly miserable, forgot to comb his hair, and despairingly refused all food during a period of five hours and a quarter.

At the age of twenty-two he tried to swim a flock of geese to the New Orleans market; but the perverse fowls leaving the Ohio and swimming up Laughery creek, he became discouraged and traded them off to a Dutchman for some empty barrels and a pound of shoemaker's wax. The barrels produced him a half dollar, which proved, on inspection, to be villainously bogus. This circumstance embittered his whole life—indeed "he never smiled again"—but with the coin in his palm, would ruefully gaze at it for hours, and then "burst out a crying." At the tender age of thirty a lottery man sent him a confidential letter, in which he assured him that the manager had selected him as the proper person to receive a $10,000 prize, and that all they asked in return was that he would remit them $20 to pay expenses, show the $10,000, and tell how he got it. By "clearing" four acres of land Jack raised the $20, made the remittance, promised to "show the money," and expressed great gratification over the fact that he had been born lucky. All this was twenty years ago; so, if the "lottery man" is still mad because Josh didn't "show the money," he ought to remember that the boy was young and rather unsophisticated.

At a later period Josh taught a singing school, having had his attention directed to that calling by a letter received from a New York gentleman, who advertised that he would tell anybody "how to make a fortune," for one dollar. As a singist he was a success, but the court indicting his class as a nuisance, he became singularly exasperated, and plunged madly into the steamboat business not caring a cent what became of him. He is now master and principal owner of one of the finest boats that floats, and enjoys a reputation as one of the cleverest, biggest-hearted, jovialest fellows known on these "interior arteries of commerce."

ONWARD, RIGHT ONWARD,

Into the valley of death,
Rode the six hundred,

But larger, by hundreds multiplied into millions, than the doomed band who rode to swift destruction in Tennyson's poem, is the great cavalcade of unhappy beings who are riding into misery, worse than death, hugging that fearful disease FEVER AND AGUE, when by the use of

MISHLER'S HERB BITTERS,

They might, each one, be forever relieved from it, and their physical organization become thoroughly improved by means of a purified blood and healthy condition of the stomach. The legitimate result of using

Mishler's Celebrated Herb Bitters,

Is to ward off Fever and Ague when it is likely to make its appearance, and to effect a radical cure in cases where it has already gained a foothold. It makes no difference how long the victim of this disease has suffered from it, nor how violent the disease itself may be, we are prepared to furnish indubitable evidence that

Mishler's Celebrated Herb Bitters

Will cure it. It is inevitable from the very nature of the medicine; hence there is no longer any need of suffering. Send to your nearest Druggist for these invaluable Bitters, they all sell them.
